THRESHING IS IN FULL BLAST IN NO. DAKOTA

Whirl of Binder Succeeded by Heavier Rumbling of Threshing Machine

RUST CUTS THE YIELD

Flax Crop Fair to Good and Corn Promises to be Exceptionally Good

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 16.—With the completion of harvesting throughout the state, the whirl of the binder has been succeeded by the heavier rumbling of the threshing machine, according to reports sent to the North Dakota extension division office from twenty county agents. Yields of wheat as given by machine measure indicate an average over the state of 8 to 9 bushels per acre. Wheat rust seems to have cut down the yield in some localities.

Flax is reported to be a fair to good crop and the corn crop promises to be exceptional, if the frost will hold off for three or four more weeks. Potatoes have suffered from hard-shelled bugs in some sections of the state, but in general the potato fields, while thin, are in excellent condition. The heavy rains of the past week have greatly boosted potato growers' prospects.

Rye yields vary greatly, and range from 1 to 15 bushels per acre. Many farmers of the state abandoned the rye crops rather than pay harvesting and threshing costs. This was also true of the wheat farmers in some cases. The western wheat sawfly is reported to have done serious damage in isolated districts.

Hail and heavy winds have done a great deal of damage locally. Rains were quite general throughout the state, and generally benefited potato and corn crops, but hindered late harvesting and threshing. The hail completely laid bare the strips where it was heaviest.

In Burke county a strip 30 miles wide along the Canadian border was badly damaged Sunday evening by hail, while in LaMoure county more than 80 barns were wrecked and crops in a territory of 250 square miles were laid waste. Much stock and poultry killed by the severe hail and the accompanying heavy winds. Individual reports from the various county extension agents for the period ending last Saturday follow:

CASS—"Threshing is general throughout the county. Wheat is grading from No. 2 to No. 4, and yields are averaging from 8 to 10 bushels per acre, reports indicate. Barley is averaging 18 to 20 bushels, with many fields dropping as low as 10. The quality is generally light in weight and poor in color. Early corn will soon be ready to hog off, the rest needing three weeks to mature."—Wm. Guy, Fargo.

MORTON—"Harvesting is on in full swing, with estimated yields of wheat at 7 to 15 bushels, and oats about 35 bushels. Potatoes have been damaged to some extent by pocket gophers. Heavy rains fell during the week."—Geo. H. Ilse, Mandan.

MCLEAN—"Wheat will be harvested by the end of the week. Due to drought and dry estimates vary from 2 to 12 bushels per acre. Corn is looking fine, but needs warmer weather. Flax will be only a fair crop. There will be a good supply of feed in the county, as the pastures are excellent since the frequent rains. The third crop of alfalfa is 4 inches high on bottom lands. Wheat sawfly has done considerable damage to wheat."—A. L. Norling, Washburn.

MERCER—"The harvesting of wheat is about completed, and harvest of flax has just started. Corn has been hindered by the cool weather. Some damage is being done by grasshoppers on wheat. Considerable rain and hail have fallen the past week, and reports of much damage done near Golden, Valley have been received."—G. C. Foe, Baulah.

GRANT—"Harvest will be completed this week. Some machines have started threshing. All crops except wheat seem to be in good condition, with alfalfa assuring a good crop. A few showers and some hail storms occurred near Elgin and New Leipzig."—R. C. Newcomer, Carson.

LA MOURE—"With harvest nearly completed, threshing has begun, and will be general within a week, although wet weather has delayed the machines. Hail and wind the past week wrecked more than 50 barns, and laid waste about 250 square miles, with a total crop loss and much stock and poultry killed."—C. H. Pollock, La Moure.

STUTSMAN—"Harvesting is at least three-fourths finished. Help has been plentiful. Threshing will be general the latter part of next week. Reports of early wheat threshing give a yield of 7 bushels per acre. Corn, flax, oats and barley are generally good. The south central part of the county suffered a severe wind and hail storm."—R. S. Goodhue, Jamestown.

GRAND FORKS—"Wheat harvesting has been general during the week. A little wheat has been threshed. Indications are that it will average more than seven bushels per acre. A few fields will not be cut, as they will not pay harvesting and threshing costs. Rye, also, is giving a poor yield, according to returns of early threshing. Oats and barley threshing has started, and indications (Continued on Page Three)

BONDING FUND IS HARD HIT BY DECISION

Still Has Large Surplus and Will Pull Through all Right, Manager Says

SLOPE COUNTY CASE

Treasurers Must Toe the Mark in Dealing with Public Funds, Is Decision

The State Bonding Fund has been hard hit by the decision of District Judge Thomas Pugh and the supreme court in the Slope county bonding case, especially in the precedent set, but the fund will be able to "come through" in the opinion of Harold Hopton, manager.

A judgment of over $57,000, including interest, was obtained against the fund by Slope county. J. S. Douglas, a former county treasurer, was a joint defendant and in the natural course the bonding fund will seek to recover from him, Mr. Hopton said.

The total assets of the bonding fund are listed at $193,551.77, as follows: Cash, $173,823.61; warrants, $10,478.28; accounts receivable, $4,359.30; real estate $4,900.00, this not including a deduction of the Slope county judgment.

The department is cancelling all bonds of officials where it is found the statutory law is not strictly complied with, according to Mr. Hopton, as "in view of the recent decision holding us liable for funds where the official fails to adequately protect funds we must do so."

Mr. Hopton said he regretted taking such drastic action but under the circumstances he felt that he must not only do this but also, as permitted under the law, report for removal from office officials who violate the law.

In addition to any action that may be taken against J. S. Douglas in the Slope county case it was announced sometime ago that the department would proceed to try and collect from the Depositors' Guaranty Fund, besides the money lost was in two failed banks in Amidon.

Mr. Hopton also declared that the money lost by some treasurers in this and similar cases was no different from money lost by the Bank of North Dakota repossessing money in banks which are closed, and that he didn't see why the little fellow should be liable on his official bond and the Bank of North Dakota officials who deposited many times as much money not held liable.

In many cases, he asserted, the treasurer came into possession of accounts in local banks through the Bank of North Dakota transferring funds already on deposit in the local banks.

HAIL STORM VERY SEVERE

The hail storm which struck in the northern part of Burleigh county Sunday night was heavier than first reports to him indicated, O. R. Vold of Regan, in Bismarck last night, said. There was heavy hail south of Regan and also north of Regan in Shunk township. He said it was a freak hail—that the storm would clean cut two or three sections and then jumped for a distance and fall again.

It was the barn of Nelson Brothers, south of Regan, and not Nils Nelson, that was struck by lightning and burned, he said.

OIL DEALERS CONFERENCE IS CALLED

Governor to Meet Them Monday to Seek Information in Gas Investigation

A conference of independent oil dealers of North Dakota, to be held in the state capitol next Monday at 10 a. m., was called by Governor McLean today, as a part of his investigation into the gasoline situation.

The Governor announced that all independent dealers are invited to be present. He will seek information as to the wholesale cost of gasoline in Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas fields, freight rates, loss in shipments, cost laid down and other information to determine whether gasoline is being sold at a reasonable cost.

FIRST WHEAT IS BROUGHT TO BISMARCK

Gluten Content of Wheat in This Section to be High, Manager Reports

The first load of wheat of the 1923 crop brought to the Russell-Miller mill and elevator in Bismarck was 100 pounds by Iver Christensen, living north of here.

The wheat weighed 57 pounds to the bushel, the wet gluten content was 39 percent and the milling quality was high, Manager E. C. Björke of the mill said. It was early Marquis and had been rusted only a little. No estimate of the yield per acre of Mr. Christensen could be safely made from this amount of wheat brought in.

The gluten content of the wheat in this section will run higher than usual this year, in the opinion of Mr. Björke. This adds to the milling quality.

The local Russell-Miller mill is now being operated at full capacity, 24 hours a day to fill rush orders.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE HELD NOW AVERTED

Federal Coal Commission Removes Most of Difficulties. In Day's Conference

MEETING ALSO TODAY

Hope Expressed There Will Be No Suspension of Work on Sept. 1

New York, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Prospects for were bright today for an ending of all danger of a September suspension of anthracite coal production. Officials of the miners' union and representatives of the anthracite operators who came last night to acceptances of tentative agreements for resumption of wage negotiations both had early engagements with the United States Coal Commission to discuss and ratify the terms involved. Considerable discussion remained to clear up the atmosphere, so the first day of the federal body's intervention in the situation which threatened to completely eliminate the "check-off" controversy which heretofore has blocked attempts at agreement.

INCREASE IN GAS PRICE IN S. D. ORDERED

Governor McMaster Raises State Price From Sixteen To Twenty Cents

STANDARD CONSIDERS

Decreases in Gasoline Price Throughout East Are Recorded During the Day

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Prospects of increases in the prices of gasoline which were recently reduced loomed today with a meeting of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana called to consider the action of Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota in raising gasoline prices in that state from 18 to 20 cents, effective Saturday.

The whole gasoline price revolves about the South Dakota situation just as it did in the original reduction made on Monday which was followed by cuts in price in all parts of the country, in the opinion of Col. R. W. Stewart, chairman of the directors. He declared the action of the South Dakota executive proved the contention of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana that consequences had not been considered, nor expert advice asked, when Gov. McMaster cut prices from 26 to 18 cents. He intimated that the company may take advantage of Governor McMaster's action which came after a conference with the independent producers yesterday and set prices higher than 20 cents. With the exception of the extreme western states, every section of the country had gasoline at reduced rates today.

New England and the Atlantic seaboard joined the mid-west and south and Idaho and Montana in the Rocky Mountain section were added when reductions of two cents in each were made effective.

Dealers in Boise, Idaho, were unable to account for the reductions which put new prices of 23 1-2 cents and 27 cents on gasoline. The Standard Oil Company in Ohio and independent producers in that state cut prices to 20 1-2 cents.

Cuts in the eastern states brought the retail price to an average of 23 cents a gallon.

WILL COLLECT TAX

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 16.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has not in the past and will not now hesitate about collecting the two-cent gasoline tax imposed by the state of South Dakota, according to Attorney L. L. Stevens of Pierre, representing the company, in a statement here today.

COMMUNISTS IN GERMANY TAKE TOWNS

Get Control of Several Places Although Situation in Berlin Is Quiet

MANY ARRESTS MADE

Mob Violence Is Reported In Several Cities and Street Fighting Reported

Berlin, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Although the Communist strike in Berlin has ended the situation elsewhere is precarious, according to reports reaching the capital. The Communists are said to control the town of Helmstedt, having disarmed the police. Many persons are reported to have been injured in a clash between Nationalists and Communists at Arnstadt.

Leipzig is without gas or electricity in consequence of a strike of municipal workers.

Eighty arrests have been made at Halle following a fight between Nationalists and Communist factions, and on Tuesday the police at Berne were obliged to withdraw before a riotous mob. The forces of occupation restored order.

The situation in the province of Saxony is reported as threatening.

SABOTAGE CONTINUED

Duesseldorf, Aug. 16.—The mine owners association in the Ruhr, according to the German press, has issued an ultimatum saying that if the miners do not cease by tomorrow their practices of reporting for duty without doing work they will be locked up.

Similarly the Communists are beginning to extend this form of sabotage to all classes of labor. Belgian authorities, it was announced, have imposed a fine of 8,000,000 marks on Duisburg as a penalty for the bomb explosion on a train near that city in June. Ten Belgian soldiers were killed and two were injured.

RESIGNS POST AS RISK BODY COMMISSIONER

Philip Elliott Presents Resignation to Governor Nestos To Take New Place

Philip Elliott, commissioner of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, has presented his resignation to Governor Nestos, effective September 1, to accept work in the office of the Attorney-General, it was announced at the Governor's office today.

Governor Nestos said that he had asked representatives of the employers to recommend a successor to Mr. Elliott. Commissioner McDonald is the representative of labor on the board, Commissioner Livdahl of the public and Mr. Elliott was the representative of the employers, the method of representation being provided by law.

OBLIGATION ON 2 PARTIES IN HAIL MATTER

Obligation is placed both upon the assessor and owner of seeing that land is reported for state hail insurance and a mistake of the former does not entitle the latter to recover from the State Bonding Fund on the official bond of the assessor. District Judge Fred Jansons held here in the case of H. Brown, I. Brown and S. Brown against Porter Nelson, assessor, and the state bonding fund.

Nelson, it was stated, had failed to list correctly all lands of the plaintiff for insurance. An obligation, however, also rested upon the owner, the court found.

"In my opinion the decision of the supreme court as well as the amendment of the law by the legislature makes it clear that the owner or tenant who does not make a return periodical to the assessor, or who exercises the assessor's right to file a new return before June 10," the court ruled.

The court said that "it is undoubtedly true that the plaintiffs in good faith depended upon the assessor to correctly list the land, but the legislature has decreed that the owner or tenant, if he is not satisfied, can file with the auditor his own return, which was not done in these cases."

PEOPLE ON WHEELS THIS SUMMER, REGISTRATIONS AT A. OF C. SHOW VISITORS HERE FROM MANY STATES

A large part of the people of the country are on wheels this summer, if one reaches a conclusion from registrations at the Bismarck free auto camp, the tourist information bureau at the Association of Commerce and the hotels.

They come through Bismarck from most everywhere, in all kinds of conveyances, and the season is now in full swing. Most of them coming through Bismarck now are returning east for a coast trip or trip to Yellowstone park. The latter park is a mecca for auto tourists this year.

Since the Bismarck free auto camp was greatly improved the tourists camping at night have averaged upwards of twenty. Figured, as experts in touring figure, that they spent $5 per day here they left considerable money in the city. The large percentage of tourists camp out along the way, according to the registration sheets at the Association of Commerce. Out of the 25 latest registrations 21 reported they camped out.

Indicative of the fact that the tourists taking the Red Trail come from all parts of the United States, the following list of home towns is reported by tourists registering recently at the Association of Commerce: Moorhead, Minnesota; Nashville, Tennessee; Decatur, Illinois; West Frankfort, Illinois; Peoria, Illinois; Green Spring, Ohio; Schneetly, New York; Seattle, Washington; Cleveland, Ohio; Marion, Iowa; Chicago, Ill.; Kalamazoo, Michigan; Eldora, Iowa; Columbus, Ohio; Hollywood, California (this party being en route to New York, Washington and Florida); Detroit, Michigan; Chicago, New York, Akron, Ohio; Los Angeles, Seattle.

A large number of tourists have motored to the coast from the east by a southern route and are turning by the Red Trail.

Pick Up Insane Man in City

An insane man whose name is not known was picked up here by Policeman Greenfield and is being held for authorities in Jamestown. He will be taken back to the insane hospital tonight. The man was found wandering in the west end of the city, refuses to talk to anyone, and authorities are not certain just how he reached Bismarck.

INJUNCTION HALTS ACTION ON PAVING

Mandan City Commission Ordered to Delay Granting of Contract

Mandan, Aug. 16.—The board of commissioners of Morton county in meeting today recommended to the state highway commission that the contract for the building of an 18-foot concrete highway for a distance of less than one-half mile from the dike at the east end of Mandan through the new underpass now being built by the Northern Pacific railway, be let to the Haggar Construction company.

The plan for building the road calls for two 9-foot strips of concrete with several feet of gravel between them. The government pays one-half of the cost.

Mandan, Aug. 16.—An injunction halting action in the awarding of contracts for the paving of Main street and other streets issued by the district court was served at the meeting of the city commissioners of Mandan last evening. As a result of this action the entire paving project and granting of bids will probably be held up until Sept. 10.

This development in the situation, however, was not unlooked for, since threats of injunction proceedings had been threatened. Since the opening of bids ten days ago petitions asking for the injunction proceedings have been circulated and generally signed. The contractor, who has the majority of the frontage signed up for that kind of paving, and if such is the case, it is mandatory on the city commission to award the contract for that material.

Property owners interested in the paving have waited seven years for the completion of the work on the cross streets to connect up with the avenues and make the paving really worth while. Prices secured for the paving are the lowest of any submitted in several years.

WATERMAIN CONTRACT

Ellendale, N. D., Aug. 15.—Contract for laying of a new watermain of first street from Third to Seventh avenues here has been let to F. R. Rusco. The material has been ordered and work is to be begun soon.

The city council has voted to employ a night watchman during the remainder of the summer and fall. The council is also considering a proposition that street signs and house numbers be installed.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES TAKEN IN BISMARCK TO BE TRIED IN U. S. COURT

Two men caught by Chief of Police Martineson here in possession of a Chevrolet automobile alleged to have been stolen in Seattle will be prosecuted in the United States District court under the Dyer act, which makes it a serious offense to transport a stolen automobile from one state to another, and for violation of which a heavy prison sentence may be imposed.

The two men giving their names as Robert Clark and Harry Robbins were arrested last Monday. Having received word that the car was stolen in Seattle, Chief of Police Martineson was on the lookout for it,

STATE BOARD'S FIGURES SHOW BIG DECREASE

Residence Property Valuation For Taxation Is Increased Throughout State

OTHER CHANGES SHOWN

Total Decrease in Assessment of Real Estate in State Runs 50 Per Cent

Real estate values in North Dakota for taxation purposes, as equalized by the state board of equalization and announced this afternoon, total $782,820,362, as compared to $1,008,047,477 last year.

The greatest decrease shown is on farm lands, the decrease being about 50 per cent from last year as compared to a general decrease of about 20 per cent.

Real property as equalized by the state board in 1922 and 1923, applying the 75 per cent valuation law to the 1923 figures, is as follows:

Class of Prop.	1922	75% Val.	1923
Farm lands	$699,230,936	$673,080,811
Town and city lots	44,424,558	$1,372,875
Leased sites, mineral reserves	1,262,216	1,085,362
Business structures	$5,599,613	26,498,420
Residence structures	26,531,154	50,808,093

Total real estate $1,008,047,477 $782,820,362

Residence structures were assessed on a 50 per cent valuation in 1922, and homes occupied by the owner received an exemption of $500. All other real estate was assessed at 100 per cent valuation. The 1923 assessment is based on a 75 per cent valuation of all property.

The total decrease on farm land values was $224,170,125 and the net increase in city property valuations is $1,017,730.

Changes Made In Burleigh

Marked changes in the valuation of property for taxation in Burleigh county are made in final figures of the state board of equalization, announced to the county auditor today.

Outstanding in the changes in real property is a marked reduction in the valuation of farm lands. Increase in business property valuation and a larger increase in the valuation of residence property in cities.

Land Reduction
A reduction of the valuation of farm lands of Burleigh county on which taxation is based is shown. The valuation last year as left by the state board was $15,275,562. The final figure for 1923 will be $11,214,525, a reduction in the valuation of farm lands in Burleigh county of $4,061,037.

The final valuation of business structures will be $1,372,875 for 1923 as compared to $1,057,324.00 last year, an increase of $315,551. The final valuation of residences and residence property will be $1,372,875 as compared to $749,985.00 last year, an increase in the valuation of $622,890.00.

The changes made by the state board of equalization from the valuations as left by the city commission of Bismarck and the board of county commissioners follows: farm lands exclusive of structures and improvements raised 14 percent; lots exclusive of structures and improvements, no change; structures and improvements of town or city lots used for business purposes, no change; residences and other structures and improvements on town and city lots not including business structures, 40 percent no change on balance of real values in county.

In the matter of farm lands, the final 1922 valuation as left by the state board for Burleigh county was $15,275,562. The final figure as left by the state board this year is $11,214,525, which is an increase of 14 percent from the valuation of the county board, which was $1,116,403. However, last year farm lands were assessed at true value whereas under the new law the county auditor will take 75 percent of the state board's figure. This will bring the valuation of farm lands in the county for taxation down to $11,214,525, the greatest reduction on farm lands in years.

On business property the valuation for 1922 was $1,057,324.00. The final 1923 figure of the state board is $1,372,875. Taking 75 percent of this a net final figure of $1,030,656.00 is obtained. The increase on business (Continued on Page 3)

Gas Investigation

A conference of independent oil dealers of North Dakota, to be held in the state capital next Monday at 10 a. m., was called by Governor R. A. Nestos today, as a part of his investigation into the gasoline situation.

The Governor announced that all independent dealers are invited to present. He will seek information as to the wholesale cost of gasoline in Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas fields, freight rates, loss in shipments, cost laid down and other information to determine whether gasoline is being sold at a reasonable cost.

FIRST WHEAT IS BROUGHT TO BISMARCK

Gluten Content of Wheat in This Section to be High,
Manager Reports

The first load of wheat of the 1923 crop brought to the Russell-Miller mill and elevator in Bismarck was 100 pounds by Iver Christensen, living north of here.

The wheat weighed 57 pounds to the bushel, the wet gluten content was 39 percent and the milling quality was high, Manager H. C. Bjerk of the mill said. It was early Marquis and had been rusted only a little. No estimate of the yield per acre of Mr. Christensen could be safely made from this amount of wheat brought in.

The gluten content of the wheat in this section will run higher than usual this year, in the opinion of Mr. Bjerk. This adds to the milling quality.

The local Russell-Miller mill is now being operated at full capacity, 24 hours a day to fill rush orders.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE HELD NOW AVERTED

Federal Coal Commission Removes Most of Difficulties
In Day's Conference

MEETING ALSO TODAY

Hope Expressed There Will Be No Suspension of Work on Sept. 1

New York, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Prospects for were bright today for an ending of all danger of a September suspension of anthracite coal production. Officials of the miners' union and representatives of the anthracite operators who came last night to acceptances of tentative agreements for resumption of wage negotiations both had early engagements with the United States Coal Commission to discuss and ratify the terms involved. Considerable discussion remained to clear up the atmosphere, so the first day of the federal body's intervention in the situation which threatened the anthracite supply had almost completely eliminated the "check-off" controversy which heretofore has blocked attempts at agreement.

INCREASE IN GAS PRICE IN S. D. ORDERED

Governor McMaster Raises
State Price From Sixteen
To Twenty Cents

STANDARD CONSIDERS

Decreases in Gasoline Price
Throughout East Are Recorded During the Day

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Prospects of increases in the prices of gasoline which were recently reduced loomed today with a meeting of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana called to consider the action of Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota in raising gasoline prices in that state from 16 to 20 cents, effective Saturday.

The whole gasoline price revolves about the South Dakota situation just as it did in the original reduction made on Monday which was followed by cuts in price in all parts of the country, in the opinion of Col. R. W. Stewart, chairman of the directors. He declared the action of the South Dakota executive proved the contention of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana that consequences had not been considered, nor expert advice asked, when Gov. McMaster cut prices from 26 to 16 cents. He intimated that the company may take advantage of Governor McMaster's action which came after a conference with the independent producers yesterday and set prices higher than 20 cents. With the exception of the extreme western states every section of the country had gasoline at reduced rates today.

New England and the Atlantic seaboard joined the mid-west and south Idaho and Montana in the Rocky Mountain section were added when reductions of two cents in each were made effective.

Dealers in Boise, Idaho, were unable to account for the reductions which put new prices of 23 1-2 cents and 27 cents on gasoline. The Standard Oil Company in Ohio and independent producers in that state cut prices to 20 1-2 cents.

Cuts in the eastern states brought the retail price to an average of 23 cents a gallon.

WILL COLLECT TAX

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 16.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has not in the past and will not now hesitate about collecting the two-cent gasoline tax imposed by the state of South Dakota, according to Attorney L. L. Stevens of Pierre, representing the company, in a statement here today.

COMMUNISTS IN GERMANY TAKE TOWNS

Get Control of Several Places
Although Situation in Berlin Is Quiet

MANY ARRESTS MADE

Mob Violence Is Reported In Several Cities and Street
Fighting Reported

Berlin, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Although the Communist strike in Berlin has ended the situation elsewhere is precarious, according to reports reaching the capital. The Communists are said to control the town of Helmsdorf, having disarmed the police. Many persons are reported to have been injured in a clash between Nationals and Communists at Arnstadt.

Leipzig is without gas or electricity in consequence of a strike of municipal workers.

Eighty arrests have been made at Halle following a fight between Nationalists and Communist factions, and on Tuesday the police at Herne were obliged to withdraw before a riotous mob. The forces of occupation restored order.

The situation in the province of Saxony is reported as threatening.

Duesseldorf, Aug. 16.—The mine owners association in the Ruhr, according to the German press, has issued an ultimatum saying that if the miners do not cease by tomorrow their practice of reporting for duty without doing work they all will be locked up.

Similarly the Communists are beginning to extend this form of sabotage to all classes of labor. Belgian authorities, it was announced, have imposed a fine of 3,000,000 marks on Duisburg as a penalty for the bomb explosion on a train near that city in June. Ten Belgian soldiers were killed and two score were injured.

RESIGNS POST AS RISK BODY COMMISSIONER

Philip Elliott Presents Resignation to Governor Nestos
To Take New Place

Philip Elliott, commissioner of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, has presented his resignation to Governor Nestos, effective September 1. He accepted work in the office of the Attorney-General, it was announced at the Governor's office today.

Governor Nestos said that he had asked representatives of the employers to recommend a successor to Mr. Elliott. Commissioner McDonnell is the representative of labor on the board, Commissioner Livdahl of the public and Mr. Elliott was the representative of the employers, the method of representation being provided by law.

Mr. Elliott formerly was assistant United States Attorney in Fargo.

Mr. Elliott joined law firm Fargo before the World War, in which he was wounded in France, and later was assistant United States District Attorney in Fargo. He has been a member of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau for about three years.

OBLIGATION ON 2 PARTIES IN HAIL MATTER

Obligation is placed both upon the assessor and owner of seeing that land is reported for state hail insurance and a mistake of the former does not entitle the latter to recover from the State Bonding Fund on the official bond of the assessor, District Judge Fred Janowski said here in the case of H. Brown, I. Brown and S. Brown against Porter Nelson, assessor, and the state bonding fund.

Nelson, it was stated, had failed to list correctly all lands of the plaintiff for insurance. An obligation, however, also rested upon the owner.

"In my opinion the decision of the supreme court as well as the amendment of the law by the legislature makes it clear that the owner or tenant who does not make a return personally, is bound by the return of the assessor unless he exercises the right he has to file a new return before June 10," the court ruled.

The court said that "it is undoubtedly true that the plaintiffs in good faith depended upon the assessor to correctly list the land, but the legislature has decreed that the owner or tenant, if he is not satisfied, can file with the auditor his own return, which was not done in these cases."

PEOPLE ON WHEELS THIS SUMMER, REGISTRATIONS AT A. OF C. SHOW VISITORS HERE FROM MANY STATES

A large part of the people of the country are on wheels this summer, if one reaches a conclusion from registrations at the Bismarck free auto camp, the tourist information bureau at the Association of Commerce and the hotels.

They come through Bismarck from most everywhere, in all kinds of conveyances, and the season is now in full swing. Most of them coming through Bismarck are returning east from a coast trip to the Yellowstone park. The latter park is a mecca for auto tourists this year.

Since the Bismarck free auto camp was greatly improved the tourists camping at night have averaged upwards of twenty. Figured, as experts in touring figure, that they considerable money in the city. The large percentage of tourists camped out along the way, according to the registration sheets at the Association of Commerce.

Indicative of the fact that the tourists taking the Red Trail come from all parts of the United States, the following list of home towns is reported by tourists registering recently at the Association of Commerce: Moorhead, Minnesota; Nashville, Tennessee; Decatur, Illinois; West Frankfort, Illinois; Peoria, Illinois; Green Spring, Ohio; Schneetady, New York; Seattle, Washington; Cleveland, Ohio; Marion, Iowa; Chicago, Ill.; Kalamazoo, Michigan; Eldora, Iowa; Columbus, Ohio; Hollywood, California (this party being en route to New York, Washington and Florida); Detroit, Michigan; Chicago, New York, Akron, Ohio; Los Angeles, Seattle.

A large number of tourists have motored to the coast from the east by a southern route and are turning by the Red Trail.

INJUNCTION HALTS ACTION ON PAVING

Mandan City Commission Ordered to Delay Granting of Contract

Mandan, Aug. 16.—The board of commissioners of Morton county in meeting today recommended to the state highway commission that the contract for the building of an 18-foot concrete highway for a distance of less than one-half mile from the dike at the east end of Mandan through the new underpass now being built by the Northern Pacific railway, be let to the Haggen Construction company.

The plan for building the road calls for two 9-foot strips of concrete with several feet of gravel between them. The government pays one-half of the cost.

Mandan, Aug. 16.—An injunction halting action in the awarding of contracts for the paving of Main street and other streets issued by the district court was served at the meeting of the city commissioners of Mandan last evening. As a result of this action the entire paving project and granting of bonds probably be held up until Sept. 10.

This development in the situation, however, was not unlooked for, since threats of injunction proceedings had been threatened. Since the opening of bids ten days ago petitions asking for the laying of concrete paving have been circulated and generally signed. The contractor who has the low bid on concrete believes he has a majority of the frontage.

The plan for building the road calls for two 9-foot strips of concrete with several feet of gravel between them. The government pays one-half of the cost.

Property owners interested in the paving have waited seven years for the completion of the work on the cross streets to connect up with the avenues and make the paving really worth while. Prices secured for the paving are the lowest of any submitted in several years.

WATERMAIN CONTRACT.

Ellendale, N. D., Aug. 16.—Contract for laying of a new watermain of First street from Third to Seventh avenues here has been let to F. E. Rusco. The material has been ordered and work is to be begun soon.

The city council has voted to employ a night watchman during the remainder of the summer and fall. The council is also considering a proposition that street signs and house numbers be installed.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES TAKEN IN

BISMARCK TO BE TRIED IN U. S. COURT

Two men caught by Chief of Police, Martineson here in possession of a Chevrolet automobile alleged to have been stolen in Seattle will be prosecuted in the United States District court under the Dyer act, which makes it a serious offense to transport a stolen automobile from one state to another, and for violation of which a heavy prison sentence may be imposed.

The two men giving their names as Robert Clark and Harry Robbins were arrested last Monday. Having received word that the car was stolen in Seattle, Chief of Police Martineson was on the lookout for it, and saw it on the street, bearing the license number of the car reported stolen. He arrested the men.

They had, according to police, driven from Seattle to Bismarck in seven days.

United States authorities were notified and they asked the sheriff to hold the men for federal prosecution. They were taken before United States Commissioner John F. Fort here and bound to the federal grand jury under bonds of $5,000 each and committed to the Burleigh county jail when they failed to get bonds.

The two men have engaged an attorney and will make attempt to get bond.

RECOGNITION OF MEXICO IS BELIEVED NEAR

John Barton Payne and Chas.
R. Warren, U. S. Commissioners, Coming Here

PRESENTING DATA
Proposed to Leave Claims to Neutral Umpires Chosen
By The Hague

(By the Associated Press.)
Mexico City, Aug. 16.—John Barton Payne and Charles B. Warren, who have concluded their work at the pre-recognition conference last night for Washington aboard a special train to submit to President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes the records of the negotiations. They are expected to arrive in the capital next Monday.

After the records had been signed yesterday it was authoritatively learned that an agreement had been reached to have the permanent president of the court of international justice at The Hague appoint neutral umpires for the U. S. and Mexican claims commissions which are to be created through the revolutionary and mixed claims convention, if diplomatic relations are to be resumed.

The document comprised the two claims commissions and the Mexican government's interpretation of the bearing of the sub-soil petroleum and agrarian laws on American property in Mexico. It is believed here that the report carried by Mr. Payne and Mr. Warren will be acceptable in Washington and that diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico soon will be established.

A reduction of the valuation of farm lands of Burleigh county on which taxation is based is shown. The valuation last year as left by the state board was $15,275,562. The final figure, on the 75 percent valuation law, for 1923 will be $11,214,525, a reduction of $4,061,037.

However, last year farm lands were assessed at true value whereas under the new law the county auditor will take 75 percent of the state board's figure. This will bring the valuation of farm lands in the county for taxation down to $11,214,525, the greatest reduction on farm lands in years.

On business property the valuation for 1923 was $1,057,324.00. The final 1923 figure of the state board is $1,137,564.00. Taking 75 percent of this is the final figure of $1,137,564.00 obtained. The increase on business (Continued on Page 4)

ADVOCATE NATIONAL BODY TO FIX PRICES

Suggest Stabilization of Wheat Prices and Minimum Price

STOP OVERPRODUCTION

Burden of Too Great Production Falls Upon Farmers

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—Creation by the United States of a national wheat corporation which would establish a basic minimum price for all American wheat, and employ other measures for stabilizing the wheat market is advocated by I. A. Madden, farm advisor for Sangamon county, and well known in Illinois as a farm authority.

"Allowing the surplus of American wheat to set the price of American farm crops must stop if the farmer is to be saved from ruin," said Mr. Madden in outlining his plan.

"The United States should charter a national wheat corporation and appropriate sufficient funds for working capital. This corporation should then establish a basic minimum wheat price for all American wheat offered at the basic minimum price, then the national when corporation should step in and buy wheat.

"Until conditions are more stable in foreign countries, the wheat exported would have to be sold at less than the basic minimum price. To make up the loss sustained on exported wheat every bushel of wheat marketed should be assessed with a differential tax. This tax would vary with the surplus produced. If the basic price was such that there was an overproduction, then the tax would lower the farmer's price to where over production would be discouraged, while if there was a shortage of wheat the tax would be lessened and production stimulated.

"This plan would not interfere with the present grain trade, with the development of cooperative marketing, nor with the chance of a price above the basic minimum to the farmer who chooses to hold his wheat until after the harvest rush. It would, without subsidizing agriculture, put the labor and capital of the American farmer on a plane with the capital and labor of other industries.

"It would eliminate market gluts due to overproduction placing the burden of overproduction entirely upon the farmer. The consumer of wheat in the United States would be asked to give the farmer an equal chance. Only the extremely selfish would deny this.

"Approximately six hundred million bushels are consumed at home and two hundred million bushels are exported. This surplus is a millstone around the neck of agricultural production."

"The suggestion that American citizens should be induced to buy wheat was denounced by Mr. Madden, who said this plan would only aggravate the situation because, 'it increases the amount of the surplus held in America, which sooner or later will cause prices to fall to lower levels.'

PLAYING OF MISS WILLS IS FEATURE

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Favorities came through without upset yesterday in the quest for national women's tennis honors on the turf of the Westside Tennis club but two of the eight seeded stars in the singles—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the champion, and Mrs. R. C. Clayton, one of the four English entrants—were extended to gain their third round brackets.

Mrs. Mallory, beginning a campaign of her eighth national title, found unexpected opposition from Miss Lillian Scherman, of New York, in the second round, and triumphed only after a sparkling duel, 6-3, 6-4. Mrs. Clayton who holds the English covered court championship, won her first round match easily, but was forced to top speed to down Mrs. David C. Mills, Orange, N. J., in the second round, 7-5, 6-3.

Britons Little Opposition

The brilliant play of Miss Helen Wills, 17 year old Berkeley, Cal. school girl, was another outstanding spot in the second day of championship play. The "wonder girl" triumphed convincingly over two youthful New Jersey stars, Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, 6-1, 6-8, and Miss Ceres Baker, of Orange, 6-0, 6-1. Aside from Mrs. Clayton, none of the British women gave much opposition but they performed in convincing fashion, nevertheless, Miss Kathleen McKane, ranking star of the invading quartet, swept aside Miss Louise Dixon, of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-0, in the first round, and put out Mrs. Robert Leroy, of New York, in the second round, 6-1, 6-0.

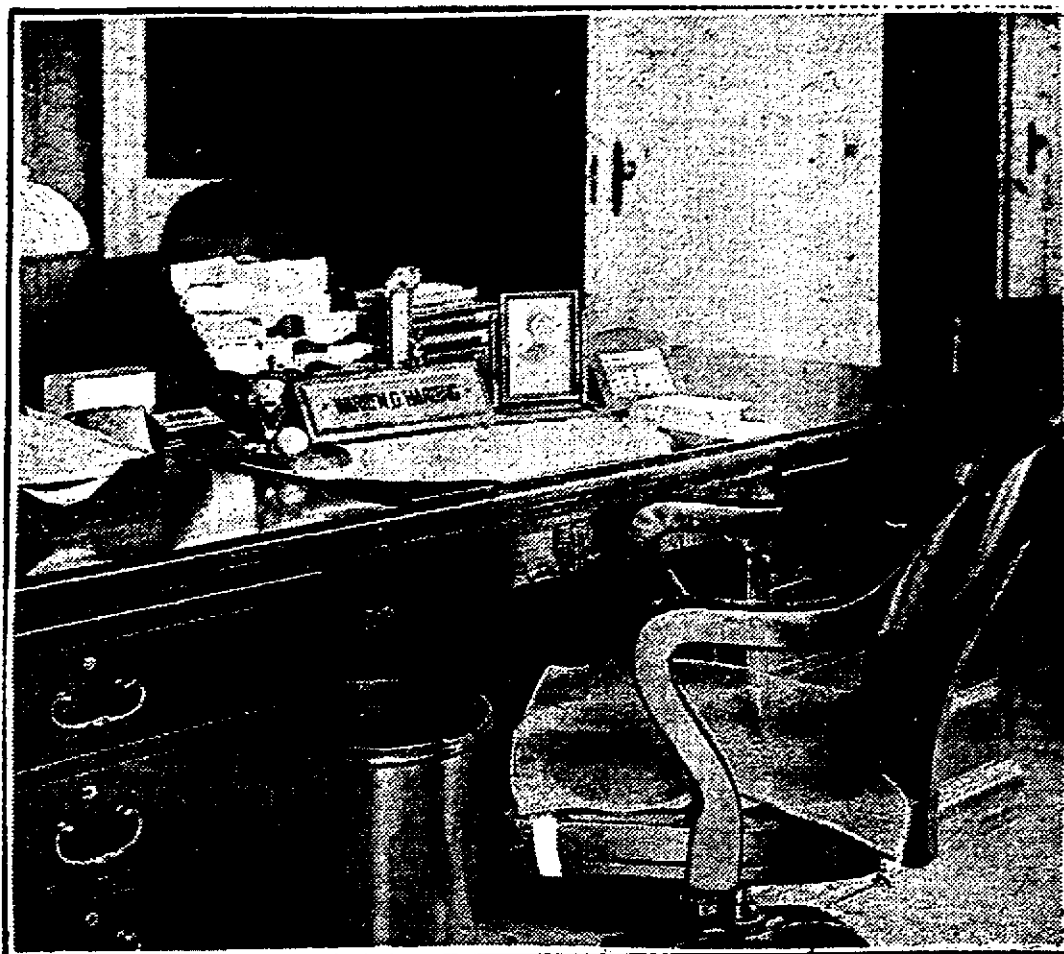

MISTLETOE A DEADLY PARASITE

Washington, Aug. 15.—If the silent signal of the mistletoe hanging from the chandelier means anything to you next Christmas, remember for an instant that in the southwest it is a commercial pest, and that for 12 years scientists have been studying its depredations and how best to exterminate it.

Mistletoe fastens on the yellow pine tree, checks growth, and finally causes the tree to die. By the Department of Agriculture it is called an "insidious and destructive disease," and its eradication is an important problem.

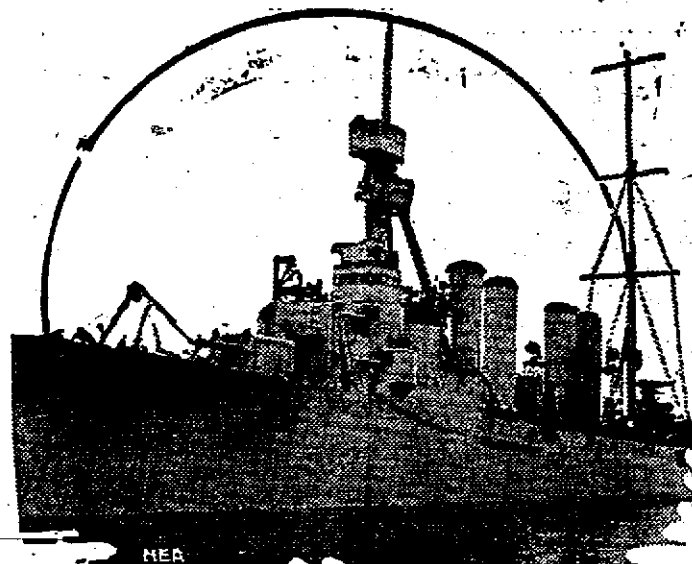

About the only way to get rid of this parasite is to cut down the tree

Big Car Crowds Ford Over Grade; One Badly Hurt

One was seriously hurt when a Ford car was pushed off the grade east of Menoken Sunday night about 10:30 o'clock by a Hudson six, according to the report of occupants of the Ford.

The occupants of the Ford, Mrs. J. C. Tilton and children, Miss Ward and Mrs. Stillwell and Mr. Springer, saw the big car approaching and had turned out to the very edge of the road when the big car crowded them still further until their car turned over as it went over the embankment, causing the serious injury of Miss Ford who sustained a fractured rib and spinal injuries while the other occupants of the car were badly bruised, Mrs. Tilton asserts. The Ford was moving very slowly or the accident would have been much more serious. The occupants of the big car did not stop to inquire about the victims of the accident, but drove on and the victims were picked up later by other cars passing, and brought to Bismarck.

The Ford was considerably damaged.

VALLEY CITY YOUTHS HELD FOR MURDER

Held After Preliminary Hearing on Charge Resulting From Girl's Death

JUMPED OUT OF CAR

Valley City, Aug. 15.—Marvin Crowhart, Oscar Olaby, and Ralph Hickman, Valley City youths charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Elfreda Anderson, 18-year-old student at the State Teachers' college from Cathay, N., were held to district court on bail of $2500 each following the preliminary hearing before Justice Moe which ended here yesterday afternoon.

Hickman and Olaby are out on bonds, and Crowhart is expected to be released under bonds soon. The death was the outcome of an alleged joyride, during which Miss Anderson jumped from a moving auto to escape alleged improper advances of one of the defendants. She fell on her head, sustaining fatal injuries.

Mrs. Ida Davis was the first witness called by the state. Mrs. Davis testified she was a member of the school board at Cathay and was well acquainted with the Anderson family, having known the family for many years. When asked by Assistant State's Attorney Combs, who is prosecuting the case in the absence of State's Attorney L. S. B. Richie, as to the character of the girls, Mrs. Davis replied that they had been brought up in the most guarded manner and that their associates were of the very best. When presented with the state's exhibit No. 1, which is a picture of Elfreda Anderson, Mrs. Davis identified the picture and stated that it resembled the girl in every feature.

Miss Inez Noll, instructor in the physical education department of the State Teachers' College, was the next witness called by the state. Miss Noll testified that she, with Mrs. Stanley Myhaler were seated on the front porch of the Myhaler residence which is located at 14 Columbia avenue, near where the girls are said to have entered the car. She further testified that the boys, one in the front seat and two in the back, had passed the Myhaler residence and had invited them to take a ride or something to that effect. She stated one of the boys held out his hands with two fingers outstretched, presumably meaning that they had room in the car for two more. She further stated she had heard one of the boys say "ride girls" or words to that effect. This was said to have taken place sometime during the afternoon of Sunday, August 5, between the hours of two and three. Mrs. Myhaler, who was the next witness called, corroborated the testimony of Miss Noll.

Lillian Miller of Devils Lake, also a student at the local college, was the next witness to take the chair. She testified she noticed the boys near the cottage and testified she had seen one of the boys take a drink from a bottle which was alleged to have been in the car. Miss Miller also testified that one of the boys had put his arm around Elfreda, who with her sister Minnie, were at the time talking with the boys. After being asked several questions by Attorney A. P. Paulsen, who is defending the boys, Miss Miller was dismissed.

Miller, then took the stand. Her testimony was about the same as that of Miss Miller. She testified she saw the girls get into the car which drove down the street and turned west toward the road leading to the Walker hill where the accident is alleged to have taken place.

The court room was packed with spectators eager to know the outcome of the hearing.

STATE AUTO BODY TO MEET

Association Called For Gathering in Fargo

Fargo, Aug. 15.—A call for a meeting of the North Dakota Automobile association to be held at Fargo next Monday afternoon has been issued by F. W. McRoberts, secretary of the organization here. The aims of the meeting are to discuss the gasoline question, plan a drive for the year 1924 members and to consider ways and means for obtaining federal aid in the construction and maintenance of highways on a favorable basis. The latter may be accomplished by circulation of initiative petitions which the association plans to do.

Members of the North Dakota Good Roads association have been invited to participate in this meeting. By starting the 1924 membership drive this fall the association hopes to obtain sufficient funds to obtain ample supplies of road maps and literature on tourist travel.

COOLIDGE TO KEEP HARDING EUROPE POLICY

This Is Indication Given at the White House in Response to Inquiries

Washington, Aug. 15.—Indications were given at the White House that President Coolidge would follow the policies enunciated by President Harding with respect to collection of the foreign debts.

It was said by an administration spokesman that this government had every intention of going ahead with its efforts to fund the present obligations and collect them on the basis of such terms as may be agreed upon by the debt funding commission.

It was indicated that in the present crisis, the American government can see no way open to offer direct aid and is hesitant about putting forward any new suggestion.

It was reiterated, however, that the United States would make a ready response to any appeal for aid that came from abroad when the help to be rendered could be given in the interest of the American people, regarded as the first responsibility of the American government.

Ready to Play Part. There was no specific reference to the British proposals for solution of the reparations difficulty, but insofar as the British plan ran along with the suggestions made by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven speech, undoubtedly the Washington government still stands ready to play a part in a new determination of the economic condition of Germany.

Whether that part would be through official participation by the government or not, it would have to make and the Flat-Band Method of building a Cord Tire.

So far as the present tense situation between Great Britain and Italy on the one hand and France and Belgium on the other is concerned, American officials have no comment to make and there is no indication that the coming of President Coolidge to his new post will affect the American attitude.

The cabinet yesterday did not discuss foreign affairs. A spokesman for the president, in making this fact known, added that it might be regarded as a hopeful sign.

MANDAN NEWS

CORN, DAIRY PRODUCTS TO BE FEATURED

Directors of Mandan Fair Plan to Boost Dairying On The Slope

The directors of the Missouri Slope Fair which is to be held in this city on Aug. 27, 28, 29 and 30th have just announced their intention of making particular emphasis of corn, dairy cattle, dairy products, hogs and poultry in keeping with the movement for diversification that is now sweeping the state. With this end in view they have sent out an appeal to the producers of the above products to come to the fair and arrange to show other people on the Missouri Slope the great strides that are being made in this respect.

J. T. Saville, Northern Great Plains Experimental Station and Geo. Isle, County Agent have been placed in charge of the Corn show which is to be the main attraction. Both these men are now scouring the Southwestern section of the state with a view to getting the very best corn exhibits possible. From what they have already seen and gathered they feel that they will have a corn exhibit that would make an Iowa, Illinois or Wisconsin farmer blush with jealousy. The fact that six thousand additional acres have been sown in Morton county alone this year gives added proof of the success of the Fair.

Some wonderful specimens of livestock are to be on display this year also the directors promise. Some of the biggest livestock breeders in this state, South Dakota and Montana have announced their intention of placing their stock on exhibit at the fair. In order that the fair may perform a greater service for the Slope than it has in the past it has been arranged to hold auction sales on two days and possibly three on Wednesday, August 29th farmers desiring pure-bred hogs will have an opportunity to procure hogs from the best sows in the state. Some prize dairy cattle will be sold on Thursday, August 30th. If there is sufficient demand it is possible that poultry auction sales will be featured on Tuesday, August 28th although nothing definite can be given out regarding that matter as yet.

Other features that will add to the enjoyment of the fair are the parade this year will be the Daredevil aviators and an aerial circus who do everything but fall to the ground from an aeroplane, race horses that really race, and to top off everything a gorgeous fireworks display in the evening that has anything but that has ever been attempted west of Fargo and east of Seattle.

PIONEER OF SLOPE DIES

Hold Funeral Services For John Anderson Today

Another of the pioneer navigators of the Missouri river passed away Wednesday night in the death of John Anderson, age 57, at the home came peacefully following an illness of five years. Deceased had been bedfast since July 1, anemia being the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Anderson came to North Dakota 38 years ago from Smolend, Sweden, when he was 19 years old, making his home at Des Moines, N. D., shortly afterward entering the employ of the late Captain Marsh as an engineer, remaining with him for many years and later working with the late Captain Wm. Charlesworth. He was married January 19, 1896 to Miss Amanda Nord. Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, Frank and Ralph, and four daughters, Mary, Mable, Della and Virginia. Two sisters reside in Sweden and Germany.

Following his marriage he moved to Ft. Clark, where he homesteaded, but remained in the employ of the river captains for several more years. They have made Mandan their home for the past few years in order to enter the children in the local schools.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church at Des Moines with Rev. W. B. Thatcher, the Mandan church in charge. Rev. Thatcher is returning today from his vacation.

Conduct Child Welfare Clinic During Slope Fair

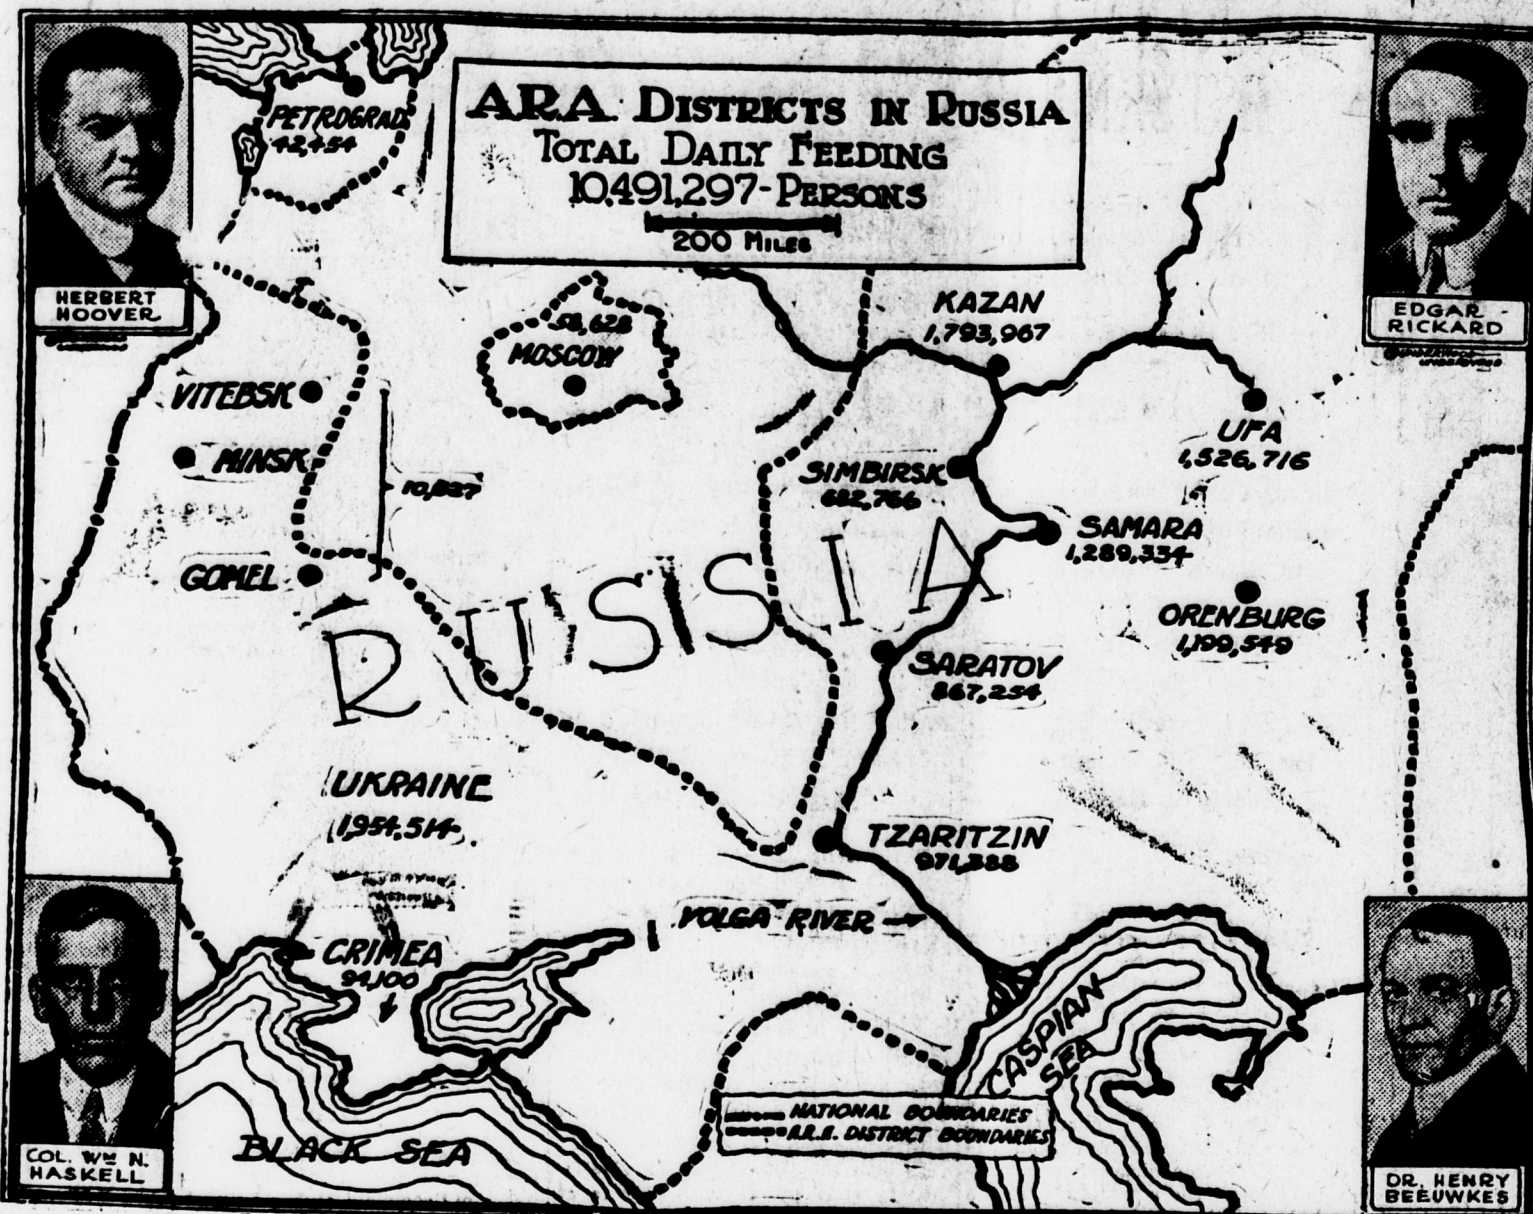

A child welfare clinic will be conducted at the Mandan Fair, Aug. 27, 28 and 29, by Dr. L. E. Boutelle, director of the Division of Child Hygiene of the State Health Department. Free examinations will be given children under school age. Advice as to care in feeding and literature as to care will also be given. The clinic rooms will be in the W. C. T. U. rest room building. Clinic hours will be from 10 a. m. until noon and from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon each day.

Dr. Boutelle will be remembered as having conducted a very successful child welfare clinic in Bismarck early this spring. Many hundreds of children were weighed and measured during the clinic and the mothers were given special information in regard to the care and feeding of children.

Two Hundred Americans Return Victorious From War On Russian Famine and Pestilence

By W. HOWARD RAMSEY

The American Relief Administration is withdrawing from Russia. The famine is over. Colonel Haskell and the little group of Americans who were working with him are returning to America. They come by ones and twos, unheralded and unclaimed, as quietly as they went, yet, if America realized their accomplishments, flags would be flying, bands blaring forth a welcome, and delegations of the most prominent citizens would be waiting at the pier to cheer their homecoming.

And being plain, unassuming Americans, unaccustomed to ceremony and heroics, the relief workers would be tremendously embarrassed by the ovation, and inquire quite seriously, "What's the big idea? What's all the fuss about?" And some of them would probably add, "How are the chances of getting a job?" Just the same embarrassing question that the boys in khaki were asking in 1919!

For almost two years now a scant two hundred Americans, on a battle line far longer than the western front, have been fighting a foe more pitiless than any the allied armies faced. From the Baltic to the Caspian Sea, from the Crimean to the Urals they have conquered the famine, saved more lives than were lost in the World War, healed a sorely suffering people of the diseases which threatened to sweep the whole of Europe, won the benedictions of a great, but stricken, nation, achieved the world's greatest adventure in humanity!

And because it was an adventure in which all America shared, it is but fitting that its accomplishment should not pass unnoticed, that the people by whose generosity the great fleet of ships was fitted out, the farmers whose grain filled their holds, the vast body of taxpayers, the men whose contributions ran into five million dollars, as well as those whose means enabled them to give only lesser sums, should know their gifts were not given in vain.

No one of the returning workers can tell the whole story. He may give interesting details. "I was at Kazan when the corn arrived. The peasants came from distant villages to haul it back on sledges. They had no horses. The ice in the river Volga was breaking up. The roads were terrible. Some died before completing the trip."

Or, "I was in Odessa when the famine was at its height. There were bodies in the streets. People were dying so fast they could not be buried. The hospital basements were heaped with dead. Or, "I was at Orenburg when the starved corpses were being hauled to the cemetery like cordwood, stark-naked, frozen bodies, and tossed into shallow trenches, while dogs waited to tear open the common graves."

But their stories will all have about the same ending. "We opened up our kitchens, got the supplies to many hundreds of thousands of children, issued corn rations to 80 many hundreds of thousands of adults, inoculated 80 many hundreds of thousands, restocked the hospitals, provided food fit for the patients, cleaned up the towns. The starvation was checked. Cholera disappeared. Typhus declined. Things are looking much better there now."

The men who were at the headquarters in Moscow, keeping the accounts, directing the movement of the food and the medical supplies, receiving and correlating the reports, fighting the battles for transportation, for adequate warehouses, for freight cars and locomotives, for river barges and sanitary trains, will have a different story. It will not be so vivid as to detail but it will be more comprehensive. Instead of telling of one city or one district with its hundreds of thousands fed, they will talk of the extent of the operation in terms of millions. They will illustrate the freight movement from the Northern and Southern ports to the heart of the famine area by graphic charts they have prepared. They will tell how many millions of miles were ordered, how many consumed and the use that was made of the empty cans and cases, of how many thousands of hospitals were opened and how the rations were allocated months in advance, so that the children who came to the kitchen could be certain a meal would be waiting them.

And down on lower Broadway, toward the end of Manhattan Island, in one of the skyscrapers there are men who could tell still another story. They would speak of the great purchases, of the chartering of hundreds of ships, of the mobilization of funds, of crop estimates and international negotiations, of a detailed accounting system, of expert auditing. They would tell of a business administration of entrusted funds under the direction of Edgar Rickard, which enabled the chairman of the American Relief Administration, Herbert Hoover, to report to the President of the United States: "There has not been a deduction of one penny for administrative purposes either from the funds provided by Congress or from public charity in the United States."

But by whichever group the story is told, it is one of which America may well be proud. In July, 1921, Maxim Gorky and Pat Flinch "Ikhon" traveled to the whole world to save the starving population of the Volga Valley. The very day that appeal was published Herbert Hoover telegraphed to Gorky the conditions under which the A. R. A. could extend its relief. Within a month Colonel William N. Haskell was appointed director of the A. R. A. in Russia and food ships were on their way. America was the first country to respond. It offered to feed a million. It was feeding more than ten times that number day in and day out before the first twelve-month haul was completed. It transported to Russia and distributed there close to a million tons of grain and other foodstuffs. A fleet of 237 ships sailed its way across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean, Baltic and Black Seas, and under the direction of only 200 Americans an army of 125,000 Russians labored unloading, warehousing, hauling, weighing, cooking and serving that food. It was food enough for one billion seven hundred and fifty million meals. Surely never before has one nation had so great a feast for a famished neighbor.

Is it any wonder that the peasants of one war-devastated and famine-stricken village, having no gold and no bronze available, painstakingly dug from the top walls of their cottages leaden bullets and cast a medal for the American who brought them the food, inscribing it, "I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat?" They might have quoted further, "Naked and ye clothed me," for the American Relief Administration purchased and distributed in Russia, close to $1,456,000 worth of clothing, principally among the children, many of whom were so scantily clad that they could not decently come to the public kitchens for their daily meal. In addition to this it delivered in Russia more than 400 tons of clothing collected in the United States by other organizations, to say nothing of vast quantities of bedding, hospital garments and complete layettes.

The pious Russian villagers might well have completed the text, "I was sick and ye visited me," for never was there a sicker nation than Russia when the A. R. A. arrived. Typhus, cholera, recurrent fever, smallpox, typhoid—all were raging in the famine districts and taking a terrible toll of life among the people whose resistance was weakened by famine. Moreover the movement of refugees was rapidly carrying these epidemics into every part of the country, and even across the border into the neighboring states, until Europe was threatened with a pandemic of immediate severity. And the A. R. A. in its visit of mercy, came not, like Job's comforters, empty-handed.

Rather it brought $7,685,000 worth of medicines and other sick room necessities. It brought a score or more physicians, skilled epidemiologists, it brought the largest quantities of serums, vaccines and other disease preventives ever ordered at one time. It opened free dispensaries, clinics, ambulatories, hospitals. It cleaned up entire cities; it purified water supplies; it bathed, deloused, purged, inoculated, vaccinated rich and poor, old and young, not by tens or tens of thousands, but literally by millions—almost by tens of millions. So that instead of there being 277,701 cases of typhus in Russia as there were in March, 1922, March, 1923, saw only 6,821 cases. Relapsing fever has been eliminated in the same proportion and the incidence of cholera is negligible as compared with last year's figures.

It takes more than figures to tell the story. When Dr. Henry Beeuwkes, as chief of the Medical Division, writes truthfully that since going into Russia, the American Relief Administration has supplied upwards of 16,000 hospitals and other institutions having a constant capacity of 1,039,000 persons, the task may appear to have been a monumental one. When one glances at the map of Russia and finds that these institutions were scattered over an area of 1,000,000 square miles, and that some were separated from Moscow by thousands of miles, one is struck by the magnitude of the task. But no one who has not stood inside a Russian hospital, as it was in the days of the great famine, before the relief came, can realize the full measure of America's achievement. Everything was lacking. Beds were often merely planks supported on wooden horses. Blankets were scarce, sheets were missing. Operations were performed with bare hands, in unheated operating rooms, without anesthetics, and only too often without hope of asepsis. Wounds were dressed with newspapers, or wrapped in rags from the patient's own all too scanty clothing. Water supplies were polluted, plumbing was beyond use and almost beyond repair. Drug rooms were empty of the simplest and most essential remedies. The food was unspeakably poor, utterly unfit for sick persons and woefully inadequate in amount. Men and women crawled to the hospitals to die, rather than to be made whole, and not a few succumbed in front of institutions that had no room for another patient.

America has wrought transformation here. It is useless to pile up the figures, but a few may be significant. The A. R. A. distributed to these institutions a million and a half pounds of soap. Neo-salvarsan, which proved a perfect specific for relapsing fever, was supplied to the extent of 700,000 ampules. The quinine alone, some thirty tons of it, was valued at more than half a million dollars, but no one can estimate what it was really worth to a country whose most prevalent disease is malaria. And so the list runs, through anesthetics, aspirin, bichloride, bismuth, chlorinators, digitalis, ether, forceps, clear down to zinc ointment, including all of the best known items of the pharmacopoeia and most of those to be found in a catalog of surgical instruments and hospital supplies, more than 2,000 different commodities in all, and in such quantities that the 125,000 packages sent on sixty-nine different ships, weighed fifteen million pounds. In distributing this, medical aid the American Relief Administration acted as the agent of the United States Government and the American Red Cross. The surplus Army medical supplies were turned over to the A. R. A. by act of Congress and the Red Cross supplemented the Army stocks valued at $4,000,000 by its own contribution of $4,000,000 to the amount of $3,685,000, while the entire cost of transportation and handling was covered by an individual donation of $267,400 from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial.

Altogether America's great adventure in humanity has cost her about $62,000,000. Everyone in America has shared in the beneficence. The United States Government appropriated, in addition to the medical supplies, some $20,000,000 for corn and seed grain. The Jews of America, through the American Joint Distribution Committee, gave $4,000,000; Catholics, Quakers, Methodists, Baptists, Lutherans, Adventists, and other Christian denominations, through their respective organizations, swelled the total. But the distribution was made under the unified supervision of the American Relief Administration. It was made in a characteristically American fashion, without regard to race, sect, party or creed. It was America's gift to the Russian people.

An expensive present? Well, it may have been. It cost more than the mere millions. Two of the Americans who went to Russia are not coming home. One died from typhus and the other dropped from death by disease. Two lives and $62,000,000—almost as much as it costs the United States to maintain the navy for two months in time of peace—say ten million saved from death by starvation and half that number from death by disease—the friendship and gratitude of a great people won and held—perhaps a nation saved.

It almost seems as if the adventure had been worth while.

ARRANGE FINE PROGRAM FOR MERCER FAIR

Three Day Fair at Beulah
Opens September 6

Beulah, N. D., Aug. 16.—A wide variety of entertainment features—horse races, trapeze performers, auto races, Indian war dances, and clowns—can be seen at the Mercer county fair which will take place at Beulah Sept. 6, 7, 8.

The three day entertainment program has been planned by the Fair Association and is something different from that of previous years. No carnival companies will appear on the grounds but excellent features have been obtained to take their place. The one ticket which admits the holder to the ground allows him to see all the entertainment features at the fair. A slight additional charge is made for those wishing to occupy a seat in the grand stand.

The horse races are scheduled as something particularly good. This year, automobile races will occupy an important place during the celebration. On the last day there will be a big free for all auto race, endurance races, 10 yard dashes for Ford.

La Moure brothers of Minneapolis will give two acts each afternoon and evening of the fair; Mlle. Lucille of Aberdeen, S. D., will give a swinging ladder and loop the loop trapeze act every afternoon and evening. Charles Flannigan of Great Falls, Mont., will rival Buffalo Bill in some exhibition shooting.

Rube Jay Dee has a bundle of clown stunts that are guaranteed to produce side splitting laughter. He will use his trained "Flivver" and his slack wire bicycle in various of his stunts.

Indians from the Fort Berthold reservation have accepted an invitation to be the guests of the fair association. They will give an Indian dance in front of the grand stand every evening and special stunts during the day.

The premium lists are being printed ready for distribution early in the week. They show this year that most of the premiums have been doubled for this year.

A Farm Boy's encampment will be conducted for the three days of the fair by the county agent.

THRESHING IS IN FULL BLAST IN N. DAKOTA

point to an average yield of 25 to 30 bushels. Potatoes are in fair condition, with many poor stands. Flax is generally spotted, with some good stands, and many weedy fields. Indications are that the flax crop will yield no more than 8 bushels per acre. A half inch of rain fell on Monday, but the remainder of the week was favorable for farming and threshing.—D. B. Morris, Grand Forks.

WARD—"Wheat harvest is nearly completed, and all other grains are ripening rapidly. It is estimated rye will yield 8 bushels per acre in the Kenmare area. The corn looks exceptionally promising, probably partly due to late heavy rains. Potato bugs are causing considerable damage. Field after field throughout the county is being abandoned because of this pest."—John Husby, Minot.

SLOPE—"Harvest was hindered this week due to rain and soft ground. Even the headed stacks were injured by driving rain. Alfalfa is setting seed on the well-cared for fields, but is not doing so well on broadcasted fields. Rust has cleaned up all of the late harvest well. More than 3.25 inches of rain fell at Minot, and reports from other districts indicate even heavier rainfall, with much hail."—Chas. Eastgate, Amidon.

DIVIDE—"Severe hail storms have ruined about one-seventh of the wheat crop. Rye threshing is well under way, with the highest reported yields at 13 bushels per acre. Corn and feed crops are in excellent condition, but flax has suffered from wilt. However, the crop in general shows prospects for a normal yield. Native pastures are still poor, but alfalfa and sweet clover are excellent. Western sawfly is damaging the wheat, and frost is doing some damage to grain stacks. Hail caused a total loss through the northern tier of townships over a strip four miles wide."—R. L. Aney, Crosby.

RAMSEY—"Not enough threshing has been done so that yields may be estimated. Second crops of alfalfa and sweet clover need rain, and are developing but slowly. The same may be said of other crops. Rain in some sections of the north will greatly benefit alfalfa, sweet clover, corn and potatoes."—E. M. Chally, Devils Lake.

BOTTINEAU—"Harvesting is in full swing, and the rye threshed has ranged from 1 bushel to 14 bushels per acre. Rust has done a great deal of damage, and some fields of marquis wheat are not maturing, although the durum wheat seems to stand up all right. Barley, also, is badly infected. Pastures and meadows are excellent. With 4.25 inches of precipitation this last week, the total rainfall since June 21 has been 12 inches."—C. B. Aamodt, Bottineau.

BURKE—"Wheat harvest is only about a third completed, due to the cool weather. Alfalfa and corn prospects are good, and the early sown flax will be cut next week. Corn looks the best in years with oats also a good crop. Pastures are holding out very well, while second crops of sweet clover and alfalfa are being cut for hay. The weather was cold throughout the week, and an inch of rain fell Wednesday, a thirty-mile strip of the Canadian border was badly damaged by hail Sunday evening."—Karl Swanson, Bowbells.

McHENRY—"All grain crops but flax are harvested. Frequent showers during the week have held up threshing to some extent. Corn has been making excellent progress since the rains, and there will be an abundance of mature corn, if frosts hold off until Sept. 10. Even late corn will make excellent fodder and silage. Potatoes also have improved since the rain, and although yields will be small, the tubers are of good quality. Estimated yields are 60 to 70 bushels per acre. Flax is doing fairly well, with the late flax in the boll stage. The sweet clover seed crop will be good, and pastures of sweet clover are furnishing plenty of feed. Early spring seeded alfalfa and sweet clover have been damaged by dry weather.—M. C. Thomas, Towner.

WELLS—"Threshing has begun in the county, but not enough crops have been threshed to determine yields. The average for the county is predicted at 5 bushels per acre. Potatoes will yield a light crop of good quality. Corn is growing rapidly and will no doubt be of good quality."—E. W. Vancura, Fessenden.

TOWNER—"Harvesting is nearly finished, and threshing has started. Very few harvest hands were used this fall, and only in rare cases was the average more than $3. Wheat is in poorer condition than was expected. Potatoes have been injured by bugs, and will be a poor crop. Corn throughout the county is suffering badly, due to weather conditions and run-out seed. Flax is reported to have been damaged by wet weather, while alfalfa and sweet clover are good crops. Considerable rain has fallen throughout the county, with hail near Bisbee."—J. W. Larson, Canby.

RICHLAND—"Harvesting has been completed, and threshing is well under way over the entire county. Early reports indicate that wheat will average 6 to 8 bushels; oats, about 30 bushels; and barley, 25. The flax crop is looking good, and will probably yield well. Wheat is grading No. 2 and 3. Pastures show the lack of rain, but the spring seeding of sweet clover is showing up well, and is furnishing excellent pasture. The weather continued dry and cool throughout the week."—R. C. Dynes, Wahpeton.

WILLIAMS—"Harvesting of wheat is general over the county. Black stem rust has done material damage. Early sown flax fields are ripening, and seem to be in excellent condition. Barley and oat fields are harvested, and show well filled kernels. Indications point to a heavy tonnage of corn, which is growing rapidly, and forming ears. Potato fields which are not damaged by beetles, are setting tubers. Prairie pastures are drying up in some localities, but are still better than in former years. General rains over the county delayed the harvest somewhat. Eight-tenths inch precipitation occurred at Williston."—E. G. Schollander, Williston.

PIERCE—"Harvesting is nearly completed, and some threshing has been done. Rye is yielding from 2 to 7 bushels per acre. The rains during the week have improved prospects for corn and potato crops. Rains have been general throughout the county and have improved pastures. Sweet clover left for seed promises a good crop, but spring seeding of clover has suffered greatly from drought."—H. R. Danielson, Rugby.

HUNTING TO BE FINE IN WESTERN N. D.

Plentiful Supply of Both Chickens and Ducks Is Indicated for This Year

Sportmen already are beginning to get their guns prepared for the fall shooting season.

Both grouse and ducks will be plentiful this year. The June hatching season was especially favorable for prairie chicken and grouse and there was a large number which came through the winter. The killing of toadles and streams by frequent rains has caused an increase in the number of ducks.

The number of migratory birds which will be targets for hunters in this section this fall is, of course, problematical, and depends a great deal on the weather. There will be much lack of water for the ducks to pause in for feeding on their way south.

There have been rumors that game chickens are being shot by "coons" but no reports have been reported by game wardens.

The duck and chicken season opens September 19.

LEAGUE SPLITS S. A. FACTIONS

Enters Into Political Fight in Argentine Congress

Buenos Aires, Aug. 16.—The question of Argentina's return to the League of Nations promises to cause a spirited political fight in the present congress before it closes in September. While the chamber recently voted to pay the League secretary's bills for dues, decision has yet to be made whether to ratify the admission given to the League by the Argentine government, and if this is done, whether Argentina should continue to remain aloof from participation in the League Assembly until that body acts favorably on the Argentine amendments making all sovereign states members of the League and "democratizing" the representation in the council.

Remaining aloof until such action is taken would constitute the confirmation of the policy of ex-President Yrigoyen, who caused the withdrawal of the Argentine delegation from the Assembly in 1920, but President Alvear is not in favor of maintaining this policy. Having "deserted" from Argentina's withdrawal when he was a member of the delegation, he is now, as president, seeking to rectify what he believes to have been a mistaken proceeding. He wants his country to renew its relations with the League in full and be represented regularly by a delegation, which could carry on Argentina's effort to democratize the League from the inside, and meanwhile, enable the country to participate in the benefits of membership enjoyed by nearly all other South American nations, including Brazil and Chile.

But the ex-president, reputed leader of the Radical Party which elected him, Alvear, and credited with the control of a considerable number of deputies and senators, is decidedly opposed, it is well understood in political circles, to having his policy repudiated. Consequently, while the President has no trouble in obtaining from congress authority to pay the Argentine dues to the League, it is believed that neither ratification on admission will be obtained without a contest.

WHEAT TAKES ANOTHER JUMP

Government's Crop Report Showing Decrease in Acreage Is Bullish

Chicago, Aug. 16.—With the government report indicating 15.5 per cent probable reduction of winter wheat seeding this fall wheat prices had an upward tendency in the early dealings. Higher quotations at Liverpool counted also as a bullish factor and no, too, did Illinois and Iowa rains likely to delay threshing. On the upturn in price here, however, offerings increased and temporary reaction took place. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to one-half cent higher with September $1.01 to $1.04 and December $1.04 to $1.05 was followed by a moderate setback from the initial top level but then by a material advance all around. Subsequently profit-taking sales wiped out most of the gains. Prices closed at 1-4 cent net decline to 1-2 cent advance with September $1.00 to $1.04 and 7-8 cents and December $1.04 3-4 cents to $1.04 7-8 cents.

Sweden To License Radio Receivers

Stockholm, Aug. 16.—Radiophone sending stations in Sweden are to be owned and supervised by the state, while receiving sets may be installed and operated by virtually any person who goes through the formality of obtaining a license. This is indicated by the request which the Swedish government has just made to the Department of Telegraphs to submit formal application for the right to establish radiophone broadcasting service. The request also invites further proposal of plans and requires the department to consult with the proper military authorities, as well as with the Meteorological Institute. Although the state is to own and control the radiophone stations, the actual operation is to be a concession one or more private companies during the first few years, according to the general plans.

ARRANGE FINE PROGRAM FOR MERCER FAIR

Three Day Fair at Beulah
Opens September 6

Beulah, N. D., Aug. 16.—A wide variety of entertainment features—horse races, trapeze performers, auto races, Indian war dances, and clowns—can be seen at the Mercer county Fair which will take place at Beulah Sept. 6, 7, 8.

The three day entertainment program has been planned by the Fair Association and is something different from that of previous years. No carnival companies will appear on the grounds but excellent features have been obtained to take their place. The one ticket which admits the holder to the ground allows him to see all the entertainment features at the fair. A slight additional charge is made for those wishing to occupy a seat in the grand stand.

The horse races are scheduled as something particularly good this year. Automobile races will occupy an important place during the celebration. On the last day there will be a big free for all auto race, endurance races, 100 yard dashes for boys.

La Moure brothers of Minneapolis will give two acts each afternoon and evening of the fair; Mile. Lucille of Aberdeen, S. D., will give a swinging ladder and loop the loop trapeze act every afternoon and evening. Charles Flannigan of Great Falls, Mont., will rival Buffalo Bill in some exhibition shooting.

Rube Jay has a bundle of clown stunts that are guaranteed to produce side splitting laughter. He will use his trained "Flivver" and his slack wire bicycle in various of his stunts.

Indians from the Fort Berthold reservation have accepted an invitation to be the guests of the Fair association. They will give an Indian dance in front of the grand stand every evening and special stunts during the day.

The premium lists are being printed ready for distribution early in the week. They show this year that most of the premiums have been doubled for this year.

A Farm Boy's encampment will be conducted for the three days of the fair by the county agents.

point to an average yield of 25 to 30 bushels. Potatoes are in fair condition, with many poor stands. Flax is generally spotted, with some good stands, and many weedy fields. Indications are that the flax crop will yield no more than 8 bushels per acre. A half inch of rain fell on Monday, but the remainder of the week was favorable for farming and threshing.—D. B. Morris, Grand Forks.

WARD—"Wheat harvest is nearly completed, and all other grains are ripening rapidly. It is estimated rye will yield 8 bushels per acre in the Kenmare area. The corn looks exceptionally promising, probably partly due to late heavy rains. Potato bugs are causing considerable damage. Field after field throughout the county is being abandoned because of this pest."—John Husby, Minot.

SLOPE—"Harvest was hindered this week due to rain and soft ground. Even the headed stacks were injured by driving rain. Alfalfa is setting seed on the well-cared for fields, but flax has grown so well on broadcasted fields. Rust has cleaned up all of the late hard wheat. More than 3.25 inches of rain fell at Minot, and reports from other districts indicate even heavier rainfall, with much hail."—Chas. Eastgate, Audison.

DIVIDE—"Severe hail storms have ruined about one-seventh of the wheat crop. Rye threshing is well under way, with the highest reported yields at 11 bushels per acre. Corn and feed crops are in excellent condition, but flax has suffered from wilt. However, the crop in general shows prospects for a normal yield. Native pastures are still poor, but alfalfa and sweet clover are excellent. Western sawfly is damaging the wheat, and frost is doing some damage to garden stuff. Hail caused a total loss through the northern tier of townships over a strip four miles wide."—R. L. Aney, Crosby.

RAMSEY—"Not enough threshing has been done so that yields may be estimated. Second crops of alfalfa and sweet clover need rain, and are developing but slowly. The weather may be said of other crops. Rain in some sections of the county will greatly benefit alfalfa, sweet clover, corn and potatoes."—E. M. Chally, Devils Lake.

BOTTINEAU—"Harvesting is in full swing, and the rye threshed has ranged from 1 bushel to 14 bushels per acre. Rust has done a great deal of damage, and some fields of marquis wheat will not be cut, although the durum wheat seems to stand up all right. Barley, also, is badly infected. Pastures are being mowed. With 4.25 inches of precipitation this last week, the total rainfall since June 21 has been 12 inches."—C. B. Amott, Bottineau.

BURKE—"Wheat harvest is only about a third completed, due to the cool weather and slow ripening grain. Flax prospects are good, and the early sown flax will be cut next week. Corn looks the best in years with oats also a good crop. Pastures are holding out very well, while second crops of sweet clover and alfalfa are being cut for hay. The weather was cold throughout the week, and an inch of rain fell Wednesday. A thirty-mile strip along the Canadian border was badly damaged by hail Sunday evening."—Karl Swanson, McHenry.

McHENRY—"All grain crops but flax are harvested. Frequent showers during the week have held up threshing to some extent. Corn has been making excellent progress since the rains, and there will be an abundance of mature corn, if frosts hold off until Sept. 10. Even late corn will make excellent fodder and silage. Potatoes also have improved since the rain, and although yields will be small, the tubers are of good quality. Estimated yields are 60 to 70 bushels per acre. Flax is doing fairly well, with the late flax in the boll stage. The sweet clover seed crop will be good, and pastures of sweet clover are furnishing plenty of feed. Early spring seeded alfalfa and sweet clover have been damaged by dry weather.—M. C. Thomas, Towner.

TOWNE—"Harvesting is nearly finished, and threshing has begun in the county, but not enough crop has been threshed to determine yields. The average for the county is predicted at 5 bushels per acre. Potatoes will yield a light crop of good quality. Corn is growing rapidly and will not doubt be of good quality."—E. W. Vancura, Fessenden.

TOWNE—"Harvesting is nearly finished, and threshing has begun in the county, but not enough crop has been threshed to determine yields. The average for the county is predicted at 5 bushels per acre. Potatoes will yield a light crop of good quality. Corn is growing rapidly and will not doubt be of good quality."—E. W. Vancura, Fessenden.

RICHLAND—"Harvesting has been completed, and threshing is well under way over the entire county. Early reports indicate that wheat will average 20 to 25 bushels; oats, about 30 bushels; and barley, 25. The flax crop is looking good, and will probably yield well. Wheat is grading No. 2 and 3. Pastures show the lack of rain, but the spring seeding of sweet clover is showing up well, and is furnishing excellent pasture. The weather is very dry, and a drought throughout the week."—R. C. Dynes, Wahpeton.

WILLIAMS—"Harvesting of wheat is general over the county. Black stem rust has done material damage. Early sown flax fields are ripening, and seem to be in excellent condition. Barley and oat fields are harvested, and show well filled kernels. Indications point to a heavy tonnage of corn, which is growing rapidly, and forming ears. Potato fields which are not damaged by beetles, are showing improvement. Fruit and berries are drying up in some localities, but are still better than in former years. General rains over the county delayed the harvest somewhat. Eight-tenths inch precipitation occurred at Williston. E. G. Schollander, Williston.

PIERCE—"Harvesting is nearly completed, and some threshing has been done. Rye is yielding from 2 to 7 bushels per acre. The rains during the week have improved prospects for corn and potato crops. Rains have been general throughout the county and have improved pastures. Sweet clover left for seed promises a good crop, but spring seeding of clover has suffered greatly from drought."—H. R. Dampson, Rugby.

LEAGUE SPLITS S. A. FACTIONS

Enters Into Political Fight in Argentine Congress

Buenos Aires, Aug. 16.—The question of Argentina's return to the League of Nations promises to cause a spirited political fight in the Argentine congress before it closes in September. While the chamber recently voted to pay the League secretariat bills, the decision has yet to be made whether to ratify the admission given to the League by the Yrigoyen government, and if this is done, whether Argentina should continue to remain aloof from participation in the League Assembly until that body acts favorably on the Argentine amendments making all sovereign states members of the League and "democratizing" the representation in the council.

Remaining aloof until such action is taken would constitute the confirmation of the policy of ex-President Yrigoyen, who caused the withdrawal of the Argentine delegation from the Assembly in 1920, but President Alvear is not in favor of maintaining this policy. Having dissented from Argentina's withdrawal, he is now, as president, seeking to rectify what he believes to have been a mistaken proceeding. He wants his country to renew its relations with the League in full and be represented regularly by a delegation, which could carry on Argentina's effort to democratize the League from the inside, and meanwhile, enable the country to participate in the benefits of membership enjoyed by nearly all other South American nations, including Brazil and Chile.

But the ex-president, reputed leader of the Radical Party which elected Sr. Alvear, and credited with the control of a considerable number of deputies and senators, is decidedly opposed, it is well understood in political circles, to having his policy repudiated. Consequently, while the President has no trouble in obtaining from congress authority to ratify the Argentine dues to the League, it is believed that neither ratification on adhesion will be obtained without a contest.

WHEAT TAKES ANOTHER JUMP

Government's Crop Report Showing Decrease in Acreage Is Bullish

Chicago, Aug. 16.—With the government report indicating 15.5 per cent probable reduction of winter wheat seeding this fall wheat prices had an upward tendency in the early dealings. Higher quotations at Liverpool counted also as a bullish factor and so, too, did Illinois and Iowa rains likely to delay threshing. On the upturn in price here, however, offerings increased and temporary reaction took place. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to one-half cent higher with September $1.01 to $1.04 and December $1.04 to $1.05 was followed by a moderate setback from the initial top level but then by a material advance all around. Subsequently profit-taking sales wiped out most of the gains. Prices closed at 1-4 cent net decline to 1-2 cent advance with September $1.00 3-4 cents to $1.00 7-8 cents and December $1.04 3-4 cents to $1.04 7-8 cents.

CORN, DAIRY

BE FEATURED

Directors of Mandan Fair
Plan to Boost Dairying
On The Slope

The directors of the Missouri Slope Fair which is to be held in this city on Aug. 27, 28, 29 and 30th have just announced their intention of making particular emphasis of corn, dairy cattle, dairy products, hogs and poultry in keeping with the movement for diversification that is now sweeping the state. With this end in view they have sent out an appeal to the producers of the above products to come to the fair and arrange to show other people on the Missouri Slope the great strides that are being made in this respect.

Some wonderful specimens of livestock are to be on display this year also the directors promise. Some of the biggest livestock breeders in this state, South Dakota and Montana have announced their intention of placing their stock on exhibit at the fair. In order that the fair may perform a greater service for the Slope than it has in the past it has been arranged to hold auction sales on two and possibly three days. On Wednesday, August 23rd farmers desiring purchased hogs will have an opportunity to procure hogs from the best sows in the state. Some prize dairy cattle will be sold on Thursday, August 24th. If there is sufficient demand it is possible that poultry auction sales will be featured on Tuesday, August 22nd although nothing definite can be given out regarding that matter as yet.

Other features that will add to the enjoyment of the crowd who attend this year will be the Barnyard aviary and an aerial circus who do everything but fall to the ground from an aeroplane, race horses that really race, and to top off everything a gorgeous fireworks display in the evening that has anything but that has ever been attempted west of Fargo and east of Seattle.

PIONEER OF SLOPE DIES

Hold Funeral Services For
John Anderson Today

Another of the pioneer navigators of the Missouri river passed away Wednesday night in the death of John Anderson, age 57, at the home came peacefully following an illness of five years. Deceased had been bedfast since July 1, anemia being the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Anderson came to North Dakota 38 years ago from Smolensk, Sweden, when he was 19 years old, making his home at Des Moines, N. D., shortly afterward entering the employ of the late Captain Marsh as an engineer, remaining with him for many years and later working with the late Captain Wm. Charlesworth. He was married January 19, 1886 to Miss Amanda Nord. Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, Frank and Ralph, and four daughters, Mary, Mable, Debra and Virginia. Two sisters reside in Sweden and Germany.

Following his marriage he moved to Ft. Clark, where he homesteaded, but remained in the employ of the river captains for several more years. They have made Mandan their home for the past few years in order to enter the children in the local schools.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church at Des Moines with Rev. W. B. Thatcher of the Mandan church in charge. Rev. Thatcher is returning today from his vacation.

Conduct Child
Welfare Clinic
During Slope Fair

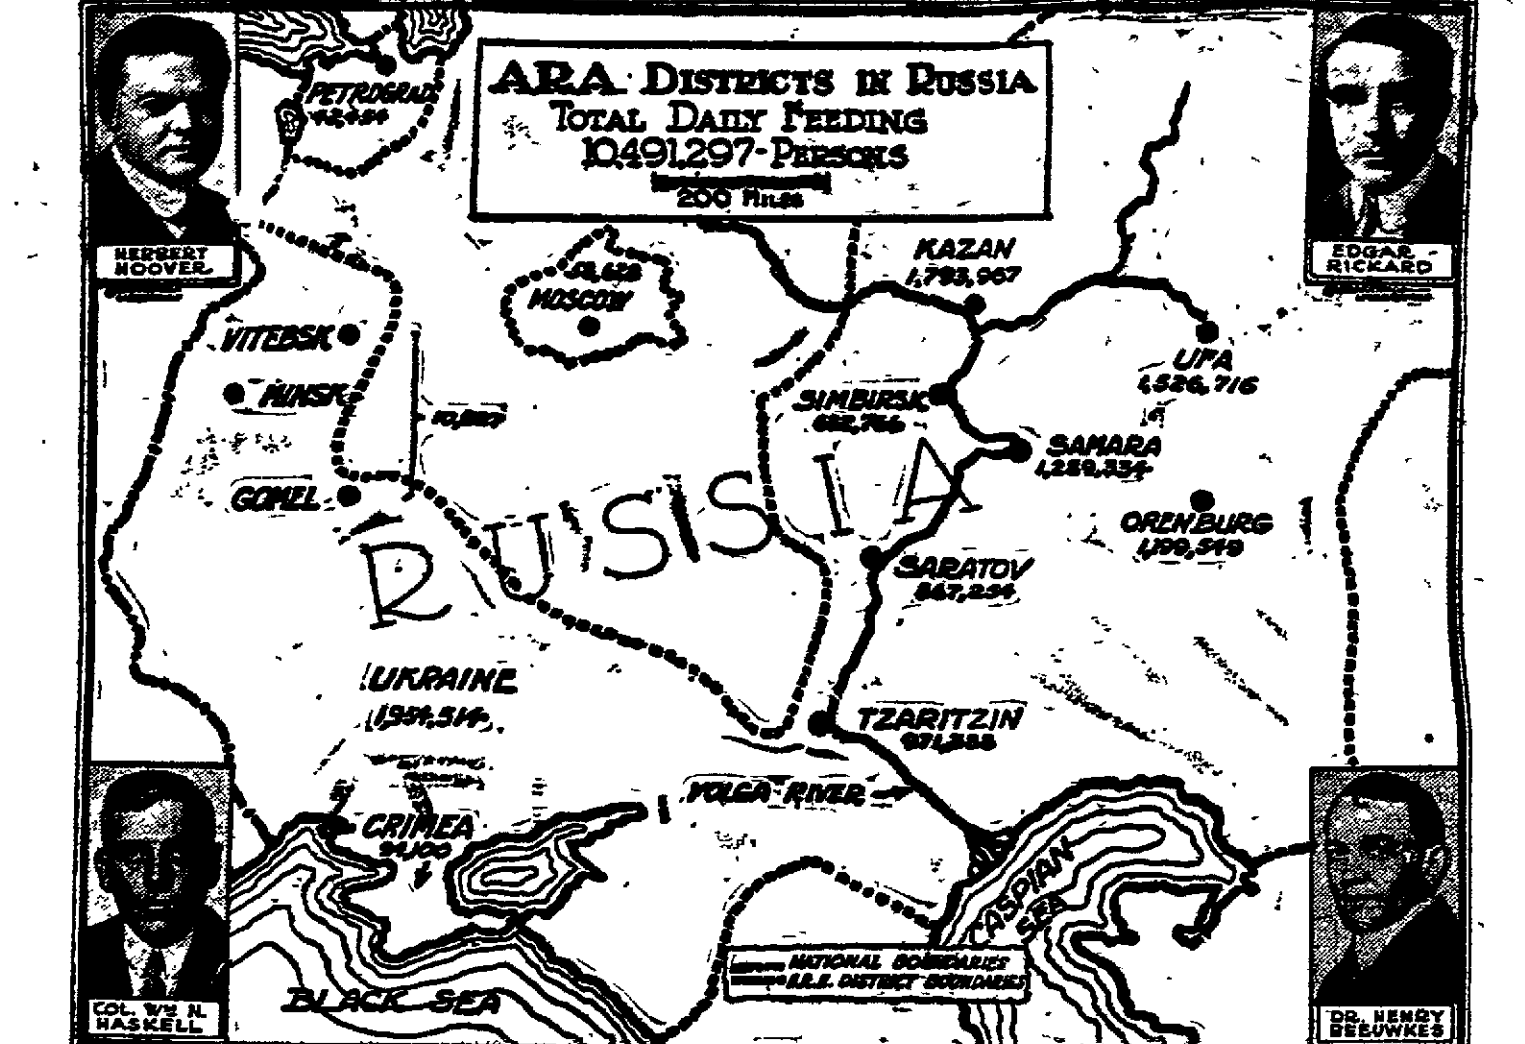

A child welfare clinic will be conducted at the Mandan Fair, Aug. 27, 28 and 29, by Dr. L. E. Boutelle, director of the Division of Child Hygiene of the State Health Department. Free examinations will be given children under school age. Advice as to care in feeding and instruction as to care will also be given. The clinic rooms will be in the W. C. T. U. rest room building. Clinic hours will be from 10 a. m. until noon and from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon each day.

Dr. Boutelle will be remembered as having conducted a very successful child welfare clinic in Bismarck early in spring. Many hundreds of children were examined and measured during the clinic and the mothers were given a great deal of information in regard to the care and feeding of children.

Two Hundred Americans Return Victorious
From War On Russian Famine and Pestilence

By W. HOWARD RAMSEY

The American Relief Administration is withdrawing from Russia. The famine is over. Colonel Haskell and the little group of Americans who were working with him are returning to America. They come by ones and twos, unheralded and unclaimed, as quietly as they went, yet, if America realized their accomplishments, flags would be flying, bands blaring forth a welcome, and delegations of the most prominent citizens would be waiting at the pier to cheer their homecoming.

And being plain, unassuming Americans, unaccustomed to exultation and heroics, the relief workers would be tremendously embarrassed by the ovation, and inquire quite seriously, "What's the big idea? What's all the fuss about?" and some of them would probably add, "How are the chances of getting a job?" Just the same embarrassing question that the boys in khaki were asking in 1919!

For almost two years now a scant two hundred Americans, on a battle line far longer than the western front, have been fighting a foe more pitiless than any the allied armies faced. From the Baltic to the Caspian Sea, from the Crimea to the Ural they have conquered the famine, saved more lives than were lost in the World War, healed a suffering people of the diseases which threatened to sweep the whole of Europe, won the benedictions of a great, but stricken, nation, achieved the world's greatest adventure in humanity!

And because it was an adventure in which all America shared, it is not fitting that its accomplishment should not pass unnoticed. The people by whose generosity the great fleet of ships was fitted out, the farmers whose grain filled their holds, the vast body of taxpayers, the men whose contributions ran into five figures, as well as those whose means enabled them to give only lesser sums, should know their gifts were not given in vain.

No one of the returning workers can tell the whole story. He may give interesting details. "I was at Kazan when the corn arrived. The peasants came from distant villages to haul it back on sledges. They had no horses. The ice in the river Volga was breaking up. The roads were terrible. Some died before completing the trip."

Or, "I was in Odessa when the famine was at its height. There were bodies in the streets. People were dying so fast they could not be buried. The hospital basements were filled with dead. Or, "I was at Orenburg when the starved corpses were being hauled to the cemetery like cordwood, stark-naked, frozen bodies, and tossed into shallow trenches, while dogs waited to tear open the common graves."

But their stories will all have about the same ending. "We opened up our kitchens, got the supplies to the villages. My district fed so many hundred thousand adults, issued corn rations to so many hundred thousand, restocked the hospitals, provided food fit for the patients, cleaned up the towns. The starvation was checked. The cholera disappeared. Typhus declined. Things are looking much better there now."

The men who were at the headquarters in Moscow, keeping the accounts, directing the movement of the food and the medical supplies, receiving and correlating the reports, fighting the battles for transportation, for adequate warehouses, for freight cars and locomotives, for river barges and sanitary trains, will have a different story. It will not be so vivid as to detail but it will be more comprehensive. Instead of telling of one city or one district with its hundreds of thousands fed, they will talk of the extent of the operation in terms of millions. They will illustrate the freight movement from the Northern and Southern ports to the heart of the famine area by graphic charts they have prepared. They will tell how many million cans of milk were ordered, how many condensed and the use that was made of the empty cans and cases, of how many thousand kitchens were opened and how the rations were allocated month in and month out, so that the children who came to the kitchen could be certain a meal would be waiting them.

And down on lower East Broadway, toward the end of Manhattan Island, in one of the skyscrapers there are men who could tell still another story. They would speak of vast grain purchases, of the chartering of hundreds of ships, of the mobilization of funds, of crop estimates and international negotiations, of a detailed accounting system of exact auditing. They would tell of a business administration of entrusted funds under the direction of Edgar Rickard, which enabled the chairman of the American Relief Administration, Herbert Hoover, to report to the President of the United States: "There has not been a deduction of one penny or an embezzlement of one cent from the funds provided by Congress or from public charity in the United States."

But by whichever group the story is told, it is one of which America may well be proud. In July, 1921, Maxim Gorky and Patrician Tikhon appealed to the whole world to save the starving population of the Volga Valley. The very day that appeal was published Herbert Hoover telegraphed to Gorky the conditions under which the A. R. A. could extend its relief. Within a month Colonel William N. Haskell was appointed director of the A. R. A. in Russia and food ships were on their way. America was the first country to respond. It offered to feed a million. It was feeding more than ten times that number day in and day out before the first twelvemonth had passed.

It transported to Russia and distributed there close to a million tons of grain and other foodstuffs. A fleet of 237 ships sailed its way across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean, Baltic and Black seas, and under the direction of only 200 Americans an army of 125,000 Russians labored on loading, warehousing, hauling, weighing, cooking and serving that food. It was food enough for one billion seven hundred and fifty million people. Surely never before has one nation set so great a feast for a famished neighbor. Is it any wonder that the peasants of one war-devastated and famine-stricken village, having no gold and no bronze available, painstakingly dug from the log walls of their cottages leaden bullets and cast a medal for the American who brought them the food, inscribing it, "I was an hungred, and ya gave me meat?" They might have quoted further, "Naked and ye clothed me," for the American Relief Administration purchased and distributed in Russia, close to $1,456,000 worth of clothing, principally among the children, many of whom were so scantily clad that they could not decently come to the public kitchens for their daily meal. In addition to this it delivered in Russia more than 400 tons of clothing collected in the United States by other organizations, to say nothing of vast quantities of bedding, hospital garments and complete layettes.

The pious Russian villagers might well have completed the text, "I was naked and ye clothed me," for never was there a sicker nation than Russia when the A. R. A. arrived. Typhus, cholera, recurrent fever, smallpox, typhoid—all were raging in the starvation districts and taking a tremendous toll of life among the people whose resistance was weakened by famine. Moreover the movement of refugees was rapidly carrying these epidemics into every part of the country, and even across the borders into the neighboring states, until Europe was threatened with a pandemic of immeasurable severity. And the A. R. A. in its visit of mercy came not like Job's comforters, empty-handed.

It brought $7,685,000 worth of medicine and other necessities. It brought a score or more physicians, skilled epidemiologists; it brought the largest quantities of serums, vaccines and other disease preventives ever ordered at one time. It opened free dispensaries, clinics, ambulatories, hospitals. It cleaned up entire cities; it purified water supplies; it bathed, disinfected, purged, isolated, vaccinated rich and poor, old and young, not by tens or tens of thousands, but literally by millions—almost by tens of millions. So these instead of there being 277,701 cases of typhus in Russia as there were in March, 1922, March, 1923, saw only 6,321 cases. Relapsing fever has been eliminated in the same proportion and the incidence of cholera is negligible as compared with last year's figures.

It takes more than figures to tell the story. When Dr. Henry Beeuwkes, as chief of the Medical Division, writes truthfully that since going into Russia, the American Relief Administration has supplied upwards of 16,000 hospitals and other institutions having a constant capacity of 1,009,000 persons, the task may appear to have been a monumental one. When one glances at the map of Russia and finds that these institutions were scattered over an area ill-supplied with railroads and that some were situated in remote regions, the base of supply, by more than a thousand miles, one's wonder grows. But no one who has not stood inside a Russian hospital, as it was in the days of the great famine, before the relief came, can realize the full measure of America's achievement. Everything was lacking. Beds were

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

HORSE LORE

What we call a "nightmare" got its name because our ancestors believed it was a visit from the Saxon demon, Mare, a vampire supposed to sit on the chest of its sleeping victim, half strangling him and causing fearful visions.

This bit of information is from a new book, "The Horse in Magic and Myth," M. Oldfield Howey wrote it.

In 1923 we know that a nightmare is a psychic-nervous condition, its cause ranging all the way from excessive glandular activity to eating combinations like oranges and buttermilk.

Superstition dies hard. But it is dying.

The reason Anglo-Saxons rarely eat horse flesh is because this article of diet originally was forbidden by their religion, according to Howey. The horse was especially protected, on account of its value in battle.

The theory or system apparently must have been to eat only the animals that could not be rushed away from an oncoming invader, and to keep the horse for flight or pursuit, for there is no logical reason why we shouldn't eat horse flesh as much as beef or lamb or pork—except for the taste.

Food prejudices are queer. Only an epicure or an oriental can eat snails, or grasshoppers without shuddering.

The wooden hobby-horse, delight of many generations of children, was used a lot for sport by grown-ups in the Middle Ages, Howey says. Then the Puritans—blue law enforcers of their day—condemned the hobby-horse as "dangerous to the soul." It came back into favor later, but only for children.

Times are changing, and Willie is developing an early tendency to snort when Santa Claus brings him a hobby-horse instead of a child-size auto.

An editor can't help but feel friendly toward the horse. An auto is an unromantic contraption and rarely does anything unusual enough to entitle it to a display in the day's news. The auto drivers and passengers furnish plenty of gossip, but not their iron steed.

The horse, however, can always be counted on to perform in a newsy fashion at some time or other in his life. Why, just the other day, a Louisiana woman complained to the district attorney that a horse had looked so attractive to her husband, he'd traded their 14-month-old son for the nag.

GYPSY LIFE

How would you like to quit your job, pack up and start out on a gypsy tour to see the country with your home on wheels—built on a motor truck or traveling by flivver and sleeping in a tent?

"Believe me, I'll tell the world, that's the life."

Mother cooking in the open instead of cooped in a hot, small kitchen. Children climbing trees, chasing each other and exploring nature instead of playing on hot city pavements with their lives in danger. Father with nothing on his mind except his hair, at leisure to smoke his pipe in peace and fish whenever there's a stream or lake near camp.

You have noticed an increasing number of these camping families. That is the greatest blessing brought by the auto—it gets city people into the glorious fresh air of the country, and farm people quickly to cities or distant country friends.

Some of us would have to save for years to get enough money ahead to live this gypsy life for many months. Sometimes we envy the rich man who can camp in style with servants to do the work. But we wonder if a better time isn't had by the family touring the country in a rickety old flivver.

City life kept its residents imprisoned for centuries, on account of inadequate transportation. The auto makers, and particularly Henry Ford, are breaking the prison bars.

Later the airplane will be cheap and fool-proof. All families then can live in the country and fly to and from work in the city, also take extremely long trips in a few days to view the earth's wonders. The best time to live lies ahead—not in the past or present.

THREE-MILE

Returning from Europe, the president of the Remington Typewriter Co. says: "Great Britain is becoming irritated over our trying to extend the right of search beyond the three-mile limit. British business men fail to see how wines and liquors sealed in the hold of vessels where they are inaccessible to Americans can affect local conditions, especially in a community where liquor is so freely obtainable as in New York."

The European viewpoint is that our purpose, in refusing to allow return-voyage liquor to enter our ports, is not so much a matter of prohibition as to enable dry American ships to compete with wet foreign ships.

WHOSE?

In 1874 Ferdinand W. Suydam was legally declared unable to care for his property, then worth $500,000. An accounting in a New York court shows that the estate now is worth over a million.

Time works wonders for the pocketbook. If you had banked $500,000 at compound interest in 1874, it would have grown to four million dollars by now. The same magic holds good for shorter times and smaller amounts.

BUGS

With a cargo of 800,000 lady-bugs, County Agent C. G. Cate arrives in Medford, Ore. The bugs, it is said, will eventually eliminate various insects that destroy orchards. Insect life, phenomenally prolific, some day will be one of man's best slaves. Mosquitoes and other pests will be fought by insect or germ destroyers bred by scientists. For instance, the "darning needle" is the mosquito's natural enemy. Why not breed them by the millions?

Editorial Review

SOME NOT IDLE SPECULATIONS

Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougal of New York sees dimly a probability that men will have to do the housework while the women "go forth to battle with the world." In researches running as far back as 1880 Mrs. MacDougal has found that during the intervening thirty-three years the percentage of business women in gainful and steady employments has risen from 14.7 to 21 per cent, while the percentage of men gainfully occupied has dropped one-half of 1 per cent. "I don't pretend to predict what the men will do," says Mrs. MacDougal. "Someone has to do the house-keeping, I suppose, and if the women are otherwise engaged the men will have to do it." But she still sees a chance of the lords of creation getting the best of women, after all. "Probably by that time," she goes on to say, "inventors will have relieved household drudgery to such an extent that it will be pretty much for the men."

It is not a bad showing for mere men—this other half of 1 per cent under his many and great temptations to "let Georgiana do it." It proves that men, as a mass, will struggle desperately before yielding their positions and being relegated to the kitchens of the land. Even though, by that time, Mrs. MacDougal's invention may have reduced house-keeping practically to a zero point, man, born of woman, will be terrified by reflecting that it has been during a half century of steady invention for reducing the former household burdens of women that the women have been growing more and more dissatisfied with house-keeping and more insistent on getting into gainful occupations in business.

It has been during the latter half of Mrs. MacDougal's forty-three years that glancing down an alley in any city residence block more man has been forced to see, in towering mounds of tin cans, the growing unwillingness of women to use any of the new methods of heat-making for the cooking of food. Every such mound he must regard as a monument to woman's growing discontent and he will shrink, in fear and trembling, from the fate which apparently nothing can relieve.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

HIS IDEA

One of the characteristic economic utterances of Calvin Coolidge is this: "There is just one condition on which the workman can secure employment and a living, nourishing, profitable wage for whatever he contributes to business enterprise, and that condition is that some one make a profit by it. That is the sound basis for the distribution of wealth, and the only one. It cannot be done by law. It cannot be done by public ownership. It cannot be done by socialism. When you deny the right to a profit you deny the right of a reward to thrift and industry." This applies both to capital and labor.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Anybody else lost?" asked Nick. "King Snookums was just about to say no, that for his subjects were accounted for, when in rushed Mrs. Peterkin Pee Wee.

"Peterkin's gone!" she cried. "He got so warm, he said he was going to find the North Pole and off he started at ten o'clock this morning. Now it's two and he isn't home yet and I've had his dinner waiting since twelve o'clock. I had such a nice dinner, too! Apple seed pudding with dandelion juice and ant's egg omelette."

"We'll find him," said Nancy. Don't you worry any more. But as he went away in a huff, he couldn't have been riding a lightning bug."

"No, I forgot to tell you," said Mrs. Peterkin Pee Wee. "He was riding a fly."

"Then I believe I know exactly where to find him," said Nancy firmly. "We'll look in all the kitchens."

"But kitchens aren't hot!" exclaimed Mrs. Peterkin. "Aunt Peterkin was hunting for the North Pole. He wanted some place that was cool."

Nancy laughed. "I know a secret," she declared, nodding her wise little head.

Now Mrs. Brown was going to make ice-cream because it was Billy Brown's birthday and Farmer Brown had put a large cake of ice on the kitchen porch to smash up for the ice-cream freezer.

Nancy and Nick went straight toward the Brown's house to look for poor Peterkin Pee Wee.

At first they thought he wasn't there but they soon saw the ice and a hole melted in it you could stick your finger into, and peeked in.

And there was Peterkin Pee Wee melted down in, and almost frozen. "I went to sleep on the North Pole," he yelled up at them. "And when I woke up I was away down here. Brer! Please throw me a rope and pull me out."

So Nick let down a piece of string and Peterkin caught hold and was hauled up safely and taken home to his worried wife.

"I'll hunt the South Pole next time!" he declared with chattering teeth.

Bolivar Just Can't Help Being Nervous

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

MOTHER:
I did not dream for one moment that you could write me such a letter as the last one I received from you. I confess that the reason I kept it so long without answering it was because I was afraid to trust myself to answer it.

I announced to you my adoption of a child by sending you the clipping without any comment because I was so busy and worried over darling Leslie's condition that I had no time to apologize to you or any one else for doing what I consider one of the most splendid things I ever have done in all my irresponsible, careless life. Being my mother, I thought you would understand. It seems I was mistaken.

I hope you will forgive me, mother, if I say that this harping upon ancestors bores me very much. Certainly I have a kind of pride in the fact that John Alden is my ancestor, but I don't remember that he really ever did anything so very wonderful except he proposed to Friselle for himself when he was sent to propose to her for Miles Standish.

We have invested the character, I think, with a lot of romance and poetry because of Longfellow's poem. He probably was a man just like the rest of us. No better, no worse. Ancestors' only mean that one must live up to the inheritance of a good name and one of the ways that I am doing this is in giving to a little, helpless, innocent child my name as well as that of my most illustrious forebear.

I am telling the world that I expect to bring that boy up to be a further pride to me and the entire family he represents.

As far as his being illegitimate—oh, how old fashioned, how narrow, how absolutely cruel! There are no illegitimate children, and that a child is unfortunately born out of wedlock is not the fault of the child and no disgrace should be attached to it.

I have sometimes thought, when I have thought about it at all—which is seldom—that an illegitimate child, as you call it, is more often born through the consummation of a great love between a man and a woman than is the one that is born to a man and woman yoked together only in the eyes of the world. I believe that just as many married as unmarried women have brought unwelcome children into the world.

I would not have believed that my mother would go out of her way to insult such splendid examples of American democracy as Leslie's father and mother if I had not read it written in your own hand.

Do you not realize that the Hamiltons are built of the same stuff as were the progenitors of whom you are so proud? Joseph Graves Hamilton has risen through his own efforts to being the big man he is in the steel industry.

And Mrs. Hamilton is one of God's good women. She has been tireless not only in her care of Leslie but in her help to me in this great trial, something in which my own mother has been sadly deficient.

You may think this rather cruel, but I believe the truth should be brought home to you and as for your threat of disposing of the heirlooms of the John Alden family to some one else than me, go ahead and do your worst.

I don't want 'em!
You also say that I can never bring my son, for he is my son legally, into your house. Now read carefully what I put down here.

Neither Leslie nor I will ever step across your threshold unless we can bring that baby with us.

THE YELLOW SEVEN A Game Of Chance

NEA Service, Inc. 1923

By Edmund Snell.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Monica Viney, sister of Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, is engaged to marry Peter Pennington. Pennington is detailed by the government to capture Chai-Hung, leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Major Armitage comes to Jesselton and announces that he means to run Chai-Hung to earth in "one week. Hewitt has Pennington disguise as a Chinese interpreter and accompany Armitage on the expedition.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY

"I expect everybody here to remain in their quarters after lights-out and I've instructed the sentries to shoot without question at anybody who is found prowling around after dark. Our next move is to get on the track of Chai-Hung with the least possible delay. Get a half-a-dozen picked men scouting for traces of the assassins and report to me as soon as anything definite transpires."

"Very good, tuan. And you?"

"I shall remain here."

There was a fallen tree trunk at the edge of the clearing, from which the bandits and Major Armitage settled himself down at the end which appeared to offer the most shade. The interpreter glanced back over his shoulder twice as he crossed to the men, but the apostle of blood and iron was pressing to heart a sportsman and although I must frankly confess the insult to my intelligence the nature of your expedition against me seemed to imply offended me deeply, there still remains enough that is good in your nature to appreciate your daring."

The eyes of the bandits counted Armitage's monogamy as a glowing live coal. "I was sorely tempted to return insult for insult—and let you go free; for I do not fear you, you poor fool, nor if this were my only stronghold—would I be afraid you could find your way here again. I was tempted, I repeat—until I remembered my left hand. It was taken from me, as you may have heard, by one of your agents—Rabat-Pilai. You can hardly blame me, Major Armitage, if I tell you I have sworn an oath to sever the left hand from any British agent who may fall into my hands."

Armitage did not lack courage. He returned the other's gaze.

"I see," he said reflectively. "You propose turning me adrift in unknown territory—minus my hand! And you claim to be a sportsman! I tell you, I was tempted, I repeat—until I saw the Chinese eyes."

Ho—introduced me to a pleasant little game of chance, which you will find on top of that cupboard where your man deposited my effects. I'll play you for my hand, Mr. Chai-Hung! It is the game of the little black and red cube and the brass box. The red shall signify my hand. May I trouble you for my pencil and one of those folded sheets of paper I carried?"

The high-backed chair creaked as Chai-Hung's back met it.

"You are a brave man, Major Armitage. We will play this game."

He touched a brass cone at his side and the attendant entered quietly.

"Bring me the game that you took from the English gentleman, the pencil and his note-book."

Without a tremor Armitage set the brass box squarely in the center of the paper and at the red corner of the thing to the corresponding corner of the sheet.

Round the box itself he marked a square and lifted the lid to show the cube resting firmly in its slot in the inner portion. He slid back the top and turned the box over and over between his fingers.

"The red will face this square," declared Chai-Hung, indicating the section with a fingernail of enormous length.

Turning the cover between finger and thumb, Armitage lifted slowly. He paused midway, conscious that the man who sat opposite had turned sharply toward the door. Suddenly the Oriental sprang to his feet—his whole being consumed with fury—and clutched with his single hand at a sword that hung from a gilded screen.

"We do not continue the game, Major Armitage," he hissed, "because your men are at my gates. He swung the weapon aloft. "It is they you must thank for this!"

Major Armitage, at dignity to the winds, threw down the paper and the red sword under the table and the box descended upon its upper surface with terrific force. As Chai-Hung strove to disengage the weapon, a bullet shattered a mirror behind him.

Armitage crawled from his refuge to find the room empty, the sentry gone and the amiable features of the interpreter—Sing-Ho—regarding him through the window.

Still crouching on his hands and knees he blinked up at the face.

"Sing-Ho!"

Pennington smiled.

"Or, in other words," he murmured sweetly, "the man who is bungling this Yellow Seven affair hopelessly—Chinese Pennington!"

"The Silver Hand," the next episode in this gripping series, will start in our next issue.

"The Chinese, Major Armitage, are inherent gamblers. There are few among us, in fact, who would not easily be tempted to hazard their entire fortunes at a game of chance."

Chai-Hung sat bolt upright in his high-backed chair and smiled.

"So I believe," returned the Englishman coldly. Now that his limbs were freed he was beginning to get over that feeling of injured dignity that had accompanied his capture. "May I ask what you intend doing with me?"

It was apparent that the bandit was equally capable of affecting deafness.

"Hence the Yellow Seven," he continued. "It is I who decide upon our victims, but the hand that carries out the death-penalty is rarely mine. The matter is decided by a form of lottery. The Yellow Seven is mixed up with the funds and those who at that moment form my bodyguard draw for it in turn. The thing is done quite openly and the sign of our society left pinned to the victim."

His glance dropped from the broad yellow face to the black sling in which the bandit's arm reposed.

Chai-Hung began speaking again, with a guttural metallic harshness that jarred on Armitage.

"Whatever my enemies may have told you, Major Armitage, I am at heart a sportsman and although I must frankly confess the insult to my intelligence the nature of your expedition against me seemed to imply offended me deeply, there still remains enough that is good in your nature to appreciate your daring."

The eyes of the bandits counted Armitage's monogamy as a glowing live coal. AT THE MOVIES

THE LITINGE

Douglas MacLean is the star of "The Sunshine Trail," a Thomas H. Ince romantic comedy drama which comes to the Eltinge theater on Friday and Saturday. "The Sunshine Trail" is the story of a doughboy who came home from the war to find that he was officially "dead." Thrown into jail as an imposter, he has a series of amusing adventures, some of them of a most dramatic nature. MacLean in his role of "Sonny" McTavish tries to scatter sunshine and to do good to everyone but most of the good he does is returned with evil and it's only in the last few scenes of the picture that "Sonny" really hits "The Sunshine Trail."

"CALIFORNIA ROMANCE" AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"There is something in the thrumming of a guitar, in the warm human notes of a lilting love song that awakens in most of us a quick response to the strong appeal of adventure and romance. That is the kind of story which awaits you at the Capitol Theatre: "A California Romance" will be shown for two days, starting tomorrow. This Fox production starring John Gilbert tells of the stirring days when California was ceded to the United States. Advances word from the producer states that the entertainment quality of this photoplay is close to one hundred per cent. There is promise of an unusually gripping story, masterful direction, keen thrills and a love tale of surpassing interest. Mention is included of particularly artistic photography, and judging from past Fox productions, the claim is well warranted.

To give the story in detail would spoil the enjoyment of those who will see it on the screen.

Stockholm, July 22
To the Bismarck Tribune:

We had fine weather in crossing the ocean and all went well. I, being 82 years old and making the trip across the Atlantic ocean alone, was a target for everybody on board. They all came to see the oldest man on the ship from the Dakotas going across the Atlantic.

I arrived in Stockholm in time to see the International Baptist church congress open with representatives from all over the world, representatives which were an honor to Stockholm. What most surprised me was to see representatives from the Central European states, as France, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Lithuania, Bulgaria, Roumania, Holland, Portugal, Spain and Russia. The speeches and singing for the day were such as to be long remembered.

There were twenty or thirty reporters attending the congress and all the papers were full of accounts of the addresses and the standing the Baptists have in the world. The papers contained statements that the Baptist church is one of the leading denominations in the Christian world.

Buzzelle-Dolan Marriage Occurs In Cleveland

Announcements of the marriage of Miss Vivian Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dolan of this city, and Burge Buzzelle, son of Rev. and Mrs. Buzzelle of Minneapolis, Minn., former residents of Bismarck Saturday, Aug. 18 come as a pleasant surprise to the many friends of the couple in Bismarck. The marriage will take place in the home of the rector of the Catholic church of Cleveland, Ohio where the couple are now residing.

Miss Dolan spent most of her life in Bismarck. She was a graduate in the Bismarck high school in 1919, attended St. Mary's parochial school, and was employed as a stenographer in the city for several years, working in the office of the state's attorney for two years, for the law firm of Sullivan and Hanley of Mandan, and Scott Cameron of Bismarck. She left Bismarck in 1921 for Aberdeen, S. D., and later went to Minneapolis and Cleveland. At present she holds a position as private secretary to the treasurer of The Bishop Babcock Co., of Cleveland.

During her years of residence in Bismarck she was very popular with her classmates and took a leading part in many of the dramatic entertainments given in the city.

Mr. Buzzelle is a graduate of the University of Idaho. He met his bride when visiting with his parents in Bismarck. Rev. Buzzelle was rector of St. George's Episcopal church for a number of years. At present Mr. Buzzelle is employed as manager of the sign department of "The May Company," the biggest store of its kind in Cleveland.

Mrs. E. L. Bennett, sister of Mr. Buzzelle, will give a wedding dinner for the couple following the ceremony, after which the young couple will leave on a honeymoon trip to Buffalo, N. Y. and Niagara Falls. They will return to Cleveland where they will make their home.

If She Would Be Happy Modern Bride Must Be Up on Husband's Art

Ethel Talbot Cohen Believes Day of Drudge Is Passed and That of Equality Really Here

New York City.—"No girl who marries an artist without a working interest in his art can expect happiness!" So Ethel Talbot Cohen, who is spending her vacation time shopping with her husband here, warns summer brides.

Mrs. Cohen, herself a professional musician, has degrees from Trinity College and Cambridge University, London. She played in orchestras with her husband before her marriage and also in orchestras he conducted. As a matter of fact, their romance began in an orchestra pit.

Since their marriage, Mr. Cohen has become musical director of one of the largest theatres in America, the Missouri of St. Louis. Mrs. Cohen helps him prepare all programs and special features, and the marvelous musical events at the Missouri are due to the joint efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Cohen.

Mrs. Cohen is very fond of American music and optimistic for its future. She believes no amount of "uplift" or "high-brow" art will kill the public's love for the ballad type of song.

In her time shopping she found Irish melodies still very popular. "River Shannon Moon," a favorite Irish waltz, is one of her chief prizes from the expedition.

"The Irish tunes will always be successful waltzes," she asserted. "They are not of the fox trot variety and their charm lies, I think, in the fact that they are inseparable from the waltz. They indeed seem to be the music for which waltz steps were originated."

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE.

Douglas MacLean is the star in "The Sunshine Trail," a Thomas H. Ince romantic comedy drama which comes to the Eltinge theater on Friday and Saturday. "The Sunshine Trail" is the story of a doughboy who came home from the war to find that he was officially "dead." Thrown into jail as an imposter, he has a series of amusing adventures, some of them of a most dramatic nature. MacLean in his role of "Sonny" McTavish tries to scatter sunshine and to do good to everyone but most of the good he does is returned with evil and it's only in the last few scenes of the picture that "Sonny" really hits "The Sunshine Trail."

"CALIFORNIA ROMANCE" AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"There is something in the thrumming of a guitar, in the warm human notes of a lilting love song that awakens in most of us a quick response to the strong appeal of adventure and romance. That is the kind of story which awaits you at the Capitol Theatre. "A California Romance" will be shown for two days, starting tomorrow. This Fox production starring John Gilbert tells of the stirring days when California was ceded to the United States. Advance word from the producer states that the entertainment quality of this photoplay is close to one hundred per cent. There is promise of an unusually engrossing story, masterful direction, keen thrills and a love tale of surpassing interest. Mention is included of particularly artistic photography, and judging from past Fox productions, the claim is well warranted.

To give the story in detail would spoil the enjoyment of those who will see it on the screen.

(Established 1873)

HORSE LORE

What we call a "nightmare" got its name because our ancestors believed it was a visit from the Saxon demon, Mare, a vampire supposed to sit on the chest of its sleeping victim, half strangling him and causing fearful visions.

This bit of information is from a new book, "The Horse in Magic and Myth." M. Oldfield Howey wrote it.

In 1923 we know that a nightmare is a psychic-nervous condition, its cause ranging all the way from excessive glandular activity to eating combinations like oranges and buttermilk.

Superstition dies hard. But it is dying.

The reason Anglo-Saxons rarely eat horse flesh is because this article of diet originally was forbidden by their religion, according to Howey. The horse was especially protected, on account of its value in battle.

The theory or system apparently must have been to eat only the animals that could not be rushed away from an oncoming invader, and to keep the horse for flight or pursuit, for there is no logical reason why we shouldn't eat horse flesh as much as beef or lamb or pork—except for the taste.

Food prejudices are queer. Only an epicure or an oriental can eat snails, or grasshoppers without shuddering.

The wooden hobby-horse, delight of many generations of children, was used a lot for sport by grown-ups in the Middle Ages, Howey says. Then the Puritans—blue law enforcers of their day—condemned the hobby-horse as "dangerous to the soul." It came back into favor later, but only for children.

Times are changing, and Willie is developing an early tendency to snort when Santa Claus brings him a hobby-horse instead of a child-size auto.

An editor can't help but feel friendly toward the horse. An auto is an unromantic contraption and rarely does anything unusual enough to entitle it to a display in the day's news. The auto drivers and passengers furnish plenty of gossip, but not their iron steed.

The horse, however, can always be counted on to perform in a newsy fashion at some time or other in his life. Why, just the other day, a Louisiana woman complained to the district attorney that a horse had looked so attractive to her husband, he'd traded their 14-month-old son for the nag.

GYPSY LIFE

How would you like to quit your job, pack up and start out on a gypsy tour to see the country with your home on wheels—built on a motor truck or traveling by flivver and sleeping in a tent?

"Believe me, I'll tell the world, that's the life." Mother cooking in the open instead of cooped in a hot, small kitchen. Children climbing trees, chasing each other and exploring nature instead of playing on hot city pavements with their lives in danger. Father with nothing on his mind except his hair, at leisure to smoke his pipe in peace and fish whenever there's a stream or lake near camp.

You have noticed an increasing number of these camping families. That is the greatest blessing brought by the auto—it gets city people into the glorious fresh air of the country, and farm people quickly to cities or distant country friends.

Some of us would have to save for years to get enough money ahead to live this gypsy life for many months. Sometimes we envy the rich man who can camp in style with servants to do the work. But we wonder if a better time isn't had by the family touring the country in a rickety old flivver.

City life kept its residents imprisoned for centuries, on account of inadequate transportation. The auto makers, and particularly Henry Ford, are breaking the prison bars. Later the airplane will be cheap and fool-proof. All families then can live in the country and fly to and from work in the city, also take extremely long trips in a few days to view the earth's wonders. The best time to live lies ahead—not in the past or present.

THREE-MILE

Returning from Europe, the president of the Remington Typewriter Co. says: "Great Britain is becoming irritated over our trying to extend the right of search beyond the three-mile limit. British business men fail to see how wines and liquors sealed in the hold of vessels where they are inaccessible to Americans can affect local conditions, especially in a community where liquor is so freely obtainable as in New York."

The European viewpoint is that our purpose, in refusing to allow return-voyage liquor to enter our ports, is not so much a matter of prohibition as to enable dry American ships to compete with wet foreign ships.

WHOSE?

In 1874 Ferdinand W. Suydam was legally declared unable to care for his property, then worth $500,000. An accounting in a New York court shows that the estate now is worth over a million.

Time works wonders for the pocketbook. If you had banked $500,000 at compound interest in 1874, it would have grown to four million dollars by now. The same magic holds good for shorter times and smaller amounts.

BUGS

With a cargo of 800,000 lady-bugs, County Agent C. G. Cate arrives in Medford, Ore. The bugs, it is said, will eventually eliminate various insects that destroy orchards.

Insect life, phenomenally prolific, some day will be one of man's best slaves. Mosquitoes and other pests will be fought by insect or germ destroyers bred by scientists. For instance, the "darning needle" is the mosquito's natural enemy. Why not breed them by the millions?

Editorial Review

SOME NOT IDLE SPECULATIONS

Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougal of New York sees dimly a probability that men will have to do the housework while the women "go forth to battle with the world." In researches running as far back as 1880 Mrs. MacDougal has found that during the intervening forty-three years the percentage of business women in gainful and steady employments has risen from 14.7 to 21 per cent, while the percentage of men gainfully occupied has dropped one-half of 1 per cent. "I don't pretend to predict what the men will do," says Mrs. MacDougal. "Someone has to do the house-keeping, I suppose, and if the women are otherwise engaged the men will have to do it." But she still sees a chance of the lords of creation getting the best of women, after all. "Probably by that time," she goes on to say, "women will have relieved household drudgery to such an extent that it will be pretty much for the men."

It is not a bad showing for mere man—this other one-half of 1 per cent—under his many and great temptations to "let Georgiana do it." It proves that men, as a mass, will struggle desperately before yielding their positions and being relegated to the kitchens of the land. Even though, by that time, as Mrs. MacDougal foresees, invention may have reduced house-keeping practically to a zero point, man, born of woman, will be terrified by reflecting that it has been during a half century of steady invention for reducing the former household burdens of women that the women have been growing more and more disinterested with house-keeping and more insistent on getting into gainful occupations in business.

It has been during the latter half of Mrs. MacDougal's forty-three years that, glancing down an alley in any city residence block, mere man has been forced to see, in towering mounds of tin cans, the growing unwillingness of women to use any of the new methods of heat-making for the cooking of foods. Every such mound he must regard as a monument to woman's growing discontent and he will shrink in fear and trembling from the fate which apparently nothing can relieve.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

HIS IDEA

One of the characteristic economic utterances of Calvin Coolidge is this: "There is just one condition on which the woman can secure employment and a livable, nourishing, profitable wage for whatever she contributes to business enterprise, and that condition is that some one make a profit by it. That is the sound basis for the distribution of wealth and the only one. It cannot be done by public ownership, it cannot be done by socialism. When you deny the right to a profit you deny the right of a reward to thrift and industry." This applies both to capital and labor.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Anybody else lost?" asked Nick. "King Snookums was just about to say no, that for his subjects were all accounted for, when in rushed Mrs. Peterkin Pee Wee." "Peterkin's gone!" she cried. "He got so warm, he said he was going to find the North Pole and off he started at ten o'clock this morning. Now it's two and he isn't home yet and I've had his dinner waiting since twelve o'clock. I had such a nice dinner, too! Apple seed pudding with dandelion juice and ant's egg omelette."

"We'll find him," said Nancy. "Don't you worry any more. But as he went away in daylight he couldn't have been riding a lightning bug." "No, I forgot to tell you," said Mrs. Peterkin Pee Wee. "He was riding a fly."

"Then I believe I know exactly where to find him," said Nancy firmly. "We'll look in all the kitchens." But kitchens are hot," exclaimed Mrs. Peterkin. "Aha! Peterkin was hunting for the North Pole. He wanted some place that was cool."

Nancy laughed. "I know a secret," she declared, nodding her wise little head. "Now Mrs. Brown was going to make ice-cream because it was Billy Brown's birthday and Farmer Brown had put a large cake of ice on the kitchen porch to smash up for the ice-cream freezer."

Nancy and Nick went straight toward the Brown's house to look for poor Peterkin Pee Wee. At first they thought he wasn't there but they soon saw the ice and a hole melted in it you could stick your finger into, and peeked in. And there was Peterkin. Pee Wee melted down in, and almost frozen. "I want to sleep on the North Pole," he yelled up at them. "And when I woke up I was away down here. Brrr! Please throw me a rope and pull me out."

So Nick let down a piece of string and Peterkin caught hold and was hauled up safely and taken home to his worried wife.

"I'll hunt the South Pole next time!" he declared with chattering teeth.

Bolivar Just Can't Help Being Nervous

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

MOTHER: I did not dream for one moment that you could write me such a letter as the last one I received from you. I confess that the reason I kept it so long without answering it, was because I was afraid to trust myself to answer it.

I announced to you my adoption of a child by sending you the clipping without any comment because I was so busy and worried over darling Leslie's condition that I had no time to apologize to you or say one word for doing what I consider one of the most splendid things I ever have done in all my irresponsible, careless life. Being my mother, I thought you would understand, it seems I was mistaken.

I hope you will forgive me, mother, if I say that this harping upon ancestors bores me very much. Certainly I have a kind of pride in the fact that John Alden is my ancestor, but I don't remember that he really ever did anything so very wonderful except he proposed to Priscilla for himself when he was sent to propose to her for Miles Standish.

We have inherited the character, I think, with a lot of romance and poetry because of Longfellow's poem. He probably was a man just like the rest of us. No better, no worse. Ancestors only mean that one must live up to the inheritance of a good name and one of the ways that I am doing this is in giving to a little, helpless, innocent child my name as well as that of my most illustrious forebear.

I am telling the world that I expect to bring that boy up to be a further pride to me and the entire family which he represents.

As far as his being illegitimate—oh, how old-fashioned, how narrow, how absolutely cruel! There are no illegitimate children, and that a child is unfortunately born out of wedlock is not the fault of the child and no disgrace should be attached to it.

I have sometimes thought, when I have thought about it at all—which is seldom—that an illegitimate child, as you call it, is more often born through the consummation of a great love between a man and a woman than is the one that is born to a man and woman yoked together any in the eyes of the world. I believe that just as many married as unmarried women have brought unwelcome children into the world.

I would not have believed that my mother would go out of her way to insult such splendid examples of American democracy as Leslie's father and mother if I had not read it written in your own hand.

Do you not realize that the Hamiltons are built of the same stuff as we are proud? Joseph Graves Hamilton has risen through his own efforts to bring the big man he is in the steel industry.

And Mrs. Hamilton is one of God's good women. She has been tireless not only in her care of Leslie but in her help to me in this great trial, something in which my own mother has been sadly deficient.

You may think this rather cruel, but I believe the truth should be brought home to you and as for your threat of disposing of the heirlooms of the John Alden family to some one else than me, go ahead and do your worst.

I don't want 'em! You also say that I can never bring my son, for he is my son legally, into your house. Now read carefully what I put down here.

Neither Leslie nor I will ever step across your threshold unless we can bring that baby with us.

THE YELLOW SEVEN
A Game Of Chance

NEA Service, Inc. 1923

By Edmund Sael.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Monks, Inc., sister of Captain John H. Smith, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, is engaged to marry Peter Pennington. Pennington is detailed by the government to "capture" Chai-Hung, leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Major Armitage comes to Jesselton and assigns the men to run Chai-Hung to earth in "one week." Hewitt has Pennington disguise as a Chinese interpreter and accompany Armitage on the expedition.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY

"I expect everybody here to remain in their quarters after lights-out and I've instructed the sentries to shoot without question at anybody who is found prowling around after dark. Our next move is to get on the track of Chai-Hung with the least possible delay. Get a half-a-dozen picked men scouting for traces of the assassins and report to me as soon as anything definite transpires."

"Very good, tuan. And you—?"

"I shall remain here."

There was a fallen tree trunk at the edge of the clearing farthest from the squatting bearers and Major Armitage settled himself down at the end which appeared to offer the most shade. The interpreter glanced back over his shoulder twice as he crossed to the men, but the spots of blood and iron were pressing tobacco from an oil-skin pouch into an exceedingly new-looking briar and did not look up.

Pennington was frankly puzzled and not a little perturbed as to the uncomfortable proximity of the agents of Chai-Hung. It was one thing tracking down the bandit by his own methods—and quite another scouring the country at the heels of so unreasonable a leader as Armitage. The Yellow Seven were swarming somewhere close at hand, taking advantage of the shelter the jungle offered and picking off those who lagged behind. By this method they were reducing the strength of Armitage's force.

Taking with him a native sergeant, he embarked upon a reconnaissance. They were returning a couple of hours later through a narrow defile between rocky banks half hidden by ferns, when a figure appeared on the path. It was a man in a red shirt, Pennington's hands swung round to his hip-pocket, but Sergeant Danudin caught his arm.

"Bi-la, tuan! It is Rabat-Pilai." Pennington stopped dead in his tracks. The newcomer was he to whom the man with the Chinese eyes had sworn to bring him in. He was a staff, a short, fat individual with an eye and an ear missing and his mouth slit on either side.

"What is it, Rabat-Pilai?" The creature saluted as he came up.

"Great tuan, I have followed Chai-Hung to this place. He has many of his men with him and he has taken the white soldier with the glass eye." Pennington started.

"You are sure of this?" he demanded.

"Perfectly, tuan. I came from the direction of the Tuan-Besar Varney's house—which is by the river, because of something that a man had told me. I found soldiers and the man who carried the baggage; after that I saw the white lord, who was sitting on a tree. I did not enter the clearing, but skirted by way of the forest—and the thing happened as I passed. A man dressed as you and I dressed spoke to the soldiers, who followed presently into the jungle. The white lord and his men slept with his heads in his hands—and Chai-Hung came softly."

"How long ago was this?"

"Ten minutes, perhaps, not more."

Pennington's eyes blazed.

"Sergeant Danudin, round up those men and follow. Bring all the provisions you can lay your hands on. What direction are they taking, Rabat?"

"Due east, tuan. There are others who came with me who could wait at certain points until the soldiers found the path."

An Pennington followed upon the heels of Sergeant Danudin, he found time to be sorry for Major Armitage and the inevitable failure of his expedition; he was sorry, too, that the man who preached efficiency could not have been there at that moment to appreciate the caliber of the network he himself was fast weaving round Chai-Hung; little, brown, insectious mortals, each cherishing a special hatred for their quarry and assisted by a jungle telegraph coded and adapted by Chinese Pennington.

At a bend in the track Rabat-Pilai touched Pennington gently.

"They are not far ahead, tuan. They are making the house in the rocks, for Chai-Hung is tired—and his arm pains him."

"They will not have killed the white man?"

Rabat-Pilai shook his head.

"Not yet—or they would have left his body for us to find."

The corners of Pennington's mouth turned down and he examined the clip of cartridges in his automatic.

"The Chinese, Major Armitage, are inherent gamblers. There are few among us, in fact, who would not easily be tempted to hazard their entire fortunes at a game of chance."

Chai-Hung sat bolt upright in his high-backed chair and smiled.

"So I believe," returned the Englishman coldly. Now that his limbs were freed he was beginning to grow over that feeling of injured dignity that had accompanied his capture. "May I ask what you intend doing with me?"

It was apparent that the bandit was equally capable of affecting deafness.

"Hence the Yellow Seven," he continued. "It is I who decide upon our actions, but the hand that carries out the death-penalty is rarely mine. The matter is decided by a form of lottery. The Yellow Seven is mixed up with other cards and those who at that moment form my bodyguard draw for it in turn. The thing is done quite openly and the sign of our society left pinned to the victim."

The major's throat had gone suddenly dry.

His glance dropped from the broad yellow face to the black sling in which the bandit's arm reposed.

Chai-Hung began speaking again, with a guttural, metallic harshness that was a warning of danger.

"Whatever my enemies may have told you, Major Armitage, I am at heart a sportsman and, although I must frankly confess the insult to my intelligence the nature of your expedition against me seemed to imply offended me deeply, there still remains enough that is good in my nature to appear to you of them. The eyes that fixed themselves upon Armitage's monocled countenance glowed like live coals. "I was sorely tempted to return insult for insult—and let you go free; for I do not fear you, you poor fool, nor—if this were my only stronghold—would I be afraid you could find your way here."

He paused, and then he spoke again, until I remembered my left hand. It was taken from me, as you may have heard, by one of your agents—one Rabat-Pilai. You can hardly blame me, Major Armitage, if I tell you I have sworn an oath to sever the left hand from any British agent who may fall into my hands!"

Chai-Hung's eyes flashed. "I returned the other's gaze."

"I see," he said reflectively. "You propose turning me adrift in unknown territory—minus my hand! And you claim to be a sportsman! I tell you what we'll do, Mr. Chai-Hung. My Chinese interpreter—Sing—introduced me to a pleasant little game of chance which should not be unknown to you. You will find it on top of that cupboard where your map deposited my effects. I'll play you for my hand, Mr. Chai-Hung! It is the game of the little black and red cube and the brass box! The red shall signify my hand. May I trouble you with my pencil and one of those folded sheets of paper I carried?"

The high-backed chair creaked as Chai-Hung's back met it.

"You are a brave man, Major Armitage. We will play this game." He touched a brass gong at his side and the attendant entered quietly.

"Bring me the game that you took from the English gentleman, the pencil and his note-book."

Without a tremor Armitage set the little brass box squarely in the center of the paper and drew lines from each corner of the thing to the corresponding corners of the sheet. Round the box itself he marked a square and lifted the lid to show the game resting firmly in its slot in the inner portion. He slid back the top and turned the box over and over between his fingers.

"The red will face this square," declared Chai-Hung, indicating the section with a fingernail of enormous length.

Taking the cover between finger and thumb, Armitage lifted slowly. He paused midway, conscious that the man who sat opposite had turned sharply toward the door. Suddenly the Oriental sprang to his feet—his whole being consumed with fury—and clutched with his single hand at a sword that hung from a gilded screen.

"We do not continue the game, Major Armitage," he hissed, "because your men are at my gates. He swung the weapon aloft. "It is they you must thank for this!"

Throwing all dignity to the winds, Major James Lacy Armitage dived into the room, and the blow descended upon its upper part with terrific force. As Chai-Hung strove to disengage the weapon, a bullet shattered a mirror behind him.

Armitage crawled from his refuge to find the room empty, the sentry gone and the amiable features of the interpreter—Sing—regarding him through the window.

Still crouching on his hands and knees he blinked up at the face. "Sing-Ro!"

Pennington smiled.

"Or, in other words," he murmured sweetly, "the man who is bungling this Yellow Seven affair hopelessly—Chai-Hung Pennington!"

BAMBINO GOES INTO LEAD IN BATTING RACE

Also Now Leads Both Leagues in Number of Home Runs Made This Year

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Babe Ruth took the lead yesterday in St. Louis both in home runs and batting average. He pounded out one round trip, making his total for the season 39, one ahead of Cy Williams and put his average up to .3941 compared with Harry Heilmann's .3939. Despite Ruth's fancy stick work the New York Yankees lost to St. Louis, 5 to 3.

The Cincinnati Reds shocked the Giants by walking calmly away with two games, 6 to 3 and 10 to 5.

The Giants ran eight pitchers in rapid succession over the mound but all to no effect. The Reds hit two homers, one of them by Luque, and got 24 hits in the two games.

Detroit on the home ground beat Philadelphia 7 to 5. The Boston Americans defeated Cleveland 8 to 6. Despite the story told by the score heavy hitting was done by the Cleveland players who made 16 hits, six of which were two-baggers and two of which were homers by Brower and Secor.

The Chicago Americans broke even with Washington in a Chicago double-header, Washington taking the first, 5 to 1. Chicago took the second 4 to 3 in a pitching battle.

In the Nationals Boston beat Chicago 3 to 2, with Filligim as the winning hurler.

The Pittsburgh Nationals beat Philadelphia, 4 to 3, in a hard-fought fray. In Brooklyn the Nationals won the opening game in their skirmish with the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 1. They scored the entire seven in the first four innings.

COUNTRY CLUB GOLF TO PLAY OPEN SATURDAY

Qualifying Rounds to be Played in the Annual Club Championship Tournament

Qualifying rounds for the open golf championship of the Bismarck Country Club will be played Saturday, August 18, and Sunday, August 19, it was announced today by Edward B. Cox, chairman of the tournament committee.

A. S. Bolster is the present club champion, having taken the title last year. An increased interest in golf this summer which resulted in a much larger field in the handicap tournament, now nearing its semifinals, is expected to result in a hard fight for the open championship.

Contestants in the open will play 18 holes. The low 16 will comprise the championship flight. The next sixteen will be grouped in the second flight and a prize will also be given to the winner of this flight. Cards must be signed by players, marked "open championship" and deposited in the score box at the clubhouse, so that the tournament committee may schedule the flights.

It is expected that all golf players of the club will participate, Chairman Cox said.

BISMARCK AGAIN FALLS BEFORE HESTER'S CLUB

Minot, Aug. 16.—The State League leaders last evening took a one-sided game from Bismarck, 6 to 0. Dennison was in superb form and Bismarck never threatened to score while Minot hit viciously, collecting a dozen singles in six innings. A new arbiter, Hatten, occasioned levity among players and fans by weird decisions which detracted much from the interest of the game. Only a handful of spectators were present.

KRAUSE LOSES ON FOUL TO JOHNNY KNAUF

Wahpeton, N. D., Aug. 16.—Russie Leroy of Fargo spoiled a fight with Freddy Carter of St. Paul by knocking him out in the second round of a scheduled 10 round main event of a card staged here for the entertainment of visiting Legionnaires last night. The bout was replete with action and shifty work despite its brevity.

Johnny Knauf of Moorhead was awarded the decision on a foul over Earl Krause of Fargo in the semi-windup. Krause hit Knauf low, floored him, and Referee Labo Saffro awarded the fight to Knauf.

Lou Boomer, whom Fargo fans call "The Galloping Switchman" and Red Edmunds of Fargo fought a six round draw in the second preliminary.

Card Good: Throughout Young Martinson, won on a technical knockout over Earl Perkins in the second round of a scheduled four round fight. Both are Wahpeton boys.

The entire card was the best that has ever been staged here in the eastern part of North Dakota. Every bout was fast and full of action. A capacity house of 2,000 witnessed the fights.

The Knauf-Krause fight was a

SPEAKER NEARS TWO-BAGGER RECORD

Manager of Indians Hasn't Far to Go Before He Reaches Mark Set by Ed Delehanty.

TRIS SPEAKER

By BILLY EVANS.
When Babe Ruth made his 29 home runs in 1919 he broke a major league record that had stood for more than a score of years.

Then, just to show that this performance was no fluke, Ruth came back with 54 circuit swats in 1920 and set his high mark with 59 in 1921.

It looks as if the 59 homers in one season will stand for a long time despite the lively ball and short fences.

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, now threatens an other swat record that has stood for years. Speaker's goal is directed at the two-base record rather than the home-run mark.

Back in 1889, Ed Delehanty made 56 two-base hits in the National League. That mark set by Delehanty 25 years ago has stood up against the swatting of the game's greatest sluggers.

Only once has the record made by Delehanty been seriously threatened, and strangely enough Tris Speaker was the player to turn the trick.

In 1912, as a member of the Boston Red Sox, Speaker made 53 two-base hits, falling just three doubles shy of the Delehanty mark.

This year it looks very much as if Speaker would break the mark set by the famous slugger of other days. Having already passed the 40 mark and with about 50 games still to go it seems Speaker is certain to turn the trick unless he experiences a terrific slump.

Speaker's batting this year has been phenomenal when it is considered that he got away to a very bad start, for weeks being under the .300 mark. In addition, he has the woes of a manager to divert his attention.

Johnny Dundee, Chesty Over Recent Win, Ready to Try for Lightweight Title

By NEA Service

New York, Aug. 16.—Johnny Dundee's great chance is here. The lightweight championship is dangling temptingly before his eyes. And the veteran Johnny, cheeks flushed with recent victory, is reaching out for it.

His victory over Eugene Criqui, world featherweight champion, after a dozen years of ups and downs, has goaded him on into new fields.

Meets Leonard Sept. 5

Now he's ready to meet Benny Leonard, recognized ruler of the lightweight division.

They'll step into the ring at Yankee Stadium here Sept. 5. Johnny's friends are skeptical. Some fear he will meet the same fate Johnny Kilbane, fallen featherweight idol, did at Leonard's hands. Others believe he has an excellent chance to dethrone Leonard.

Back in 1917, Kilbane having no rivals with the lightweight championship, Johnny was knocked out in three rounds, the first time in his career.

Kilbane had previously met Leonard before he had acquired the lightweight title and had no trouble outweighting him. The featherweight champ felt that a go with Leonard would be soft money—a mere walk.

Far From Strangers

The Leonard-Dundee bout is nothing new in the fight world. The two champs are far from strangers. On no less than eight occasions have they met in no-decision affairs. But the most strenuous thing they did was count the receipts.

The ninth clash between the two may be for blood. Now that Dundee is a champ he will seek, no doubt, to live up to the title. Johnny has always believed that he could beat Leonard. The coming meeting will be a juicy appetizer for the main event. The two are enemies of long standing and started out to end matters as soon as possible. Both men hit low in the first round and Referee Saffro warned them against fouling in the second round. There was considerable infighting in the first round with advantage to neither man.

The second and third rounds were much the same as the first with both men fouling. Krause floored Knauf in the fourth with a seemingly low punch and Saffro asked Knauf if he was hurt and on receiving a negative reply ordered the fight to proceed. With the round not quite half over Krause sunk in a low one that hurt Knauf and Saffro awarded the fight to the Moorhead man.

BAMBINO GOES INTO LEAD IN BATTING RACE

Also Now Leads Both Leagues in Number of Home Runs Made This Year

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Babe Ruth took the lead yesterday in St. Louis both in home runs and batting average. He pounded out one round trip, making his total for the season 30, one ahead of Cy Williams and put his average up to .3941 compared with Harry Holman's .3899. Despite Ruth's fancy stick work the New York Yankees lost to St. Louis, 5 to 3.

The Cincinnati Reds shocked the Giants by walking calmly away with two games, 6 to 3 and 10 to 5.

The Giants ran eight pitchers in rapid succession over the mound but all to no effect. The Reds hit two homers, one of them by Lucie, and got 24 hits in the two games.

Detroit on the home ground beat Philadelphia 7 to 5. The Boston Americans defeated Cleveland 8 to 6. Despite the story told by the score heavy hitting was done by the Cleveland players who made 16 hits, six of which were two-baggers and two of which were homers by Brower and Secor.

The Chicago Americans broke even with Washington in a Chicago double-header, Washington taking the first, 5 to 1. Chicago took the second 4 to 3 in a pitching battle.

In the Nationals Boston beat Chicago 3 to 2, with Filligim as the winning hurler.

The Pittsburgh Nationals beat Philadelphia, 4 to 3, in a hard-fought fray. In Brooklyn the Nationals won the opening game in their skirmish with the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 1. They scored the entire seven in the first four innings.

COUNTRY CLUB GOLF TO PLAY OPEN SATURDAY

Qualifying Rounds to be Played in the Annual Club Championship Tournament

Qualifying rounds for the open golf championship of the Bismarck Country Club will be played Saturday, August 18, and Sunday, August 19. It was announced today by Edward B. Cox, chairman of the tournament committee.

A. S. Bolster is the present club champion, having taken the title last year. An increased interest in golf this summer, which resulted in a much larger field in the handicap tournament, now nearing the semi-finals, is expected to result in a hard fight for the open championship.

Contestants in the open will play 18 holes. The low 16 will comprise the championship flight. The next sixteen will be grouped in the second flight and a prize will also be given to the winner of this flight.

Cards must be signed by players, marked "open championship" and deposited in the score book at the clubhouse, so that the tournament committee may schedule the flights. It is expected that all golf players of the club will participate, Chairman Cox said.

BISMARCK AGAIN FALLS BEFORE HESTER'S CLUB

Minot, Aug. 16.—The State League leaders last evening took a one-sided game from Bismarck, 6 to 0. Dennison was in superb form and Bismarck never threatened to score while Minot hit viciously, collecting a dozen singles in six innings. A new armorer, Hatten, occasioned levity among players and fans by weird decisions which detracted much from the interest of the game. Only a handful of spectators were present.

Score by innings:
Bismarck 0 0 0 0 0 0 3 2
Minot 0 21 0 0 3 6 12 1
Batteries: Bernier and Dougan

KRAUSE LOSES ON FOUL TO JOHNNY KNAUF

Wahpeton, N. D., Aug. 16.—Russie Leroy of Fargo spoiled a fight with Freddy Carter of St. Paul by knocking him out in the second round of a scheduled 10 round main event of a card staged here for the entertainment of visiting Legionnaires last night. The bout was replete with action and shifty work despite its brevity.

Johnny Knauf of Moorhead was awarded the decision on a foul over Bat Krause of Fargo in the semi-main event. Krause hit Knauf low, floored him. Referee Labo Saffro awarded the fight to Knauf.

Lou Boomer, when Fargo fans call "The Gallant" and Red Edmunds of Fargo fought a six round draw in the preliminary.

Card Good Thoroughbred Young Martin won on a technical knockout over Earl Perkins in the second round of a scheduled four round fight. Both are Wahpeton boys.

The entire card was the best that has ever been staged in the eastern part of North Dakota. Every bout was fast and full of action. A capacity house of 2,000 witnessed the frays.

The Knauf-Krause fight was a

SPEAKER NEARS TWO-BAGGER RECORD

Manager of Indians Hasn't Far to Go Before He Reaches Mark Set by Ed Delehanty.

TRIS SPEAKER

BY BILLY EVANS.
When Babe Ruth made his 29 home runs in 1919 he broke a major league record that had stood for more than a score of years.

Then, just to show that this performance was no fluke, Ruth came back with 54 circuit swats in 1920 and set his high mark with 59 in 1921.

It looks as if the 59 homers in one season will stand for a long time, despite the lively ball and short fences.

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, now threatens another great record that has stood for years. Speaker's goal is directed at the two-base record rather than the home-run mark.

Back in 1889, Ed Delehanty made 56 two-base hits in the National League. That mark set by Delehanty 25 years ago has stood up against the swatting of the game's greatest sluggers.

Only once has the record made by Delehanty been seriously threatened, and strangely enough Tris Speaker was the player to turn the trick.

In 1912, as a member of the Boston Red Sox, Speaker made 53 two-base hits, falling just three doubles shy of the Delehanty mark.

This year it looks very much as if Speaker would break the mark set by the famous slugger of other days. Having already passed the 40 mark and with about 50 games still to go it seems Speaker is certain to turn the trick unless he experiences a terrific slump.

Speaker's batting this year has been phenomenal when it is considered that he got away to a very bad start, for weeks being under the .300 mark. In addition, he has the woe of manager to divert his attention.

Johnny Dundee, Chesty Over Recent Win, Ready to Try for Lightweight Title

By NEA Service

New York, Aug. 16.—Johnny Dundee's great chance is here.

The lightweight championship is dangling temptingly before his eyes. And the veteran Johnny, cheeks flushed with recent victory, is reaching out for it.

His victory over Eugene Criqui, world featherweight champion, after a dozen years of ups and downs, has goaded him on into new fields.

Meets Leonard Sept. 5

Now he's ready to meet Benny Leonard, recognized ruler of the lightweight division.

They'll step into the ring at Yankee Stadium here Sept. 5.

Johnny's friends are skeptical. Some fear he will meet the same fate Johnny Kilbane, fallen featherweight idol, did at Leonard's hands. Others believe he has an excellent chance to dethrone Leonard.

Back in 1917, Kilbane having no rivals for his crown, elected to mix things with the lightweight champion. Johnny was knocked out in three rounds, the first time in his career.

Kilbane had previously met Leonard before he had acquired the lightweight title and had no trouble out-boxing him. The featherweight champ felt that a go with Leonard would be soft money—a mere wait.

Far From Strangers

The Leonard-Dundee bout is nothing new in the fist c world. The two champs are far from strangers. In no less than eight occasions have they met in no-decision affairs. But the most strenuous thing they did was count the ropes.

The ninth clash between the two may be for blood. Now that Dundee is a champ he will seek, no doubt, to live up to the title Johnny has always believed that he could beat Leonard. The coming meeting will be to a decision. It will be the big opportunity for Dundee.

Should Dundee get the decision it would make him the lightweight as well as the featherweight champion and incidentally the greatest drawing card in the fight game. Dundee is certain to be well under the lightweight limit.

Leonard's Title in Danger

To get the decision or win by a knockout adds nothing to Leonard's fight record, since he will scale well over the feather limit. The bout will be one in which Leonard can lose a title but win nothing other than filthy lucre.

There are some experts who do not look on the bout with much favor, since the pair have met so often. They don't believe the public will fall for it very strong.

In the previous meetings, Dundee was simply a featherweight going out of his class. Dundee is now a champion. Bouts between champions always carry a certain appeal to the public. Incidentally, Dundee always gives the public a run for its money.

Dundee Has Real Chance

While Leonard showed fine form in his bout with Tender, he seemed to lack a finishing punch. Dundee does not appear to be counting any great danger in that respect.

On the other hand, Dundee, as he gets older, appears to have more back of his punches. Possibly it is due to the fact that Johnny has cut out some of his jumping jack tactics and is setting himself before delivering his blows.

There is color to the bout because it is between two champions. The fact that Leonard, in the eight meetings, despite a big advantage in weight, has always had his hands full, makes many of the experts believe that Dundee has a chance to annex the lightweight title in addition to his featherweight crown.

juicy appetizer for the main event. The two are enemies of long standing and started out to end matters as soon as possible. Both men hit low in the first round and Referee Saffro warned them against fouling in the rest between rounds. There was considerable infighting in the first round with advantage to neither man.

The second and third rounds were much the same as the first with both men fouling. Krause floored Knauf in the fourth with a seemingly low punch and Saffro asked Knauf if he was hurt and on receiving a negative reply ordered the fight to proceed.

The round not quite half over, Krause sunk in a low one that hurt Knauf and Saffro awarded the fight to the Moorhead man.
